MOSCOW (AP) — Two Soviet cosmonauts transferred from one orbiting spaceship to another today, scoring a dramatic first for the Soviet space program.

The two space ships, Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, had linked up in orbit shortly before cosmonauts Yevgeny Khronov and Alexei Yeliseyev made the transfer.

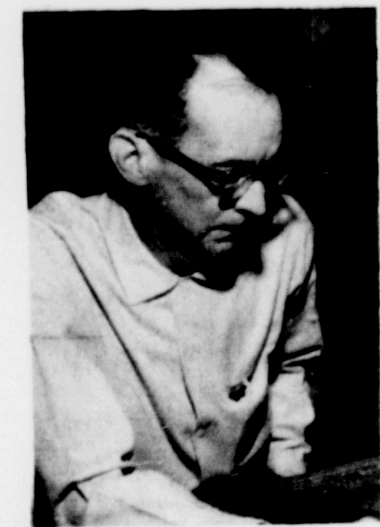

The official news agency Tass said they moved from Soyuz 5 to join Vladimir Shatalov in Soyuz 4, leaving Boris Volynov alone in Soyuz 5.

Tass said the two space ships separated after being locked together for 4 hours, 5 minutes. There was no immediate word on the remainder of the flight program.

Radio Moscow said the two cosmonauts were outside the linked-up ships "about an hour."

Khronov and Yeliseyev donned space suits just before the maneuver. Radio Moscow said the suits were equipped with a new life-support system.

"Thus Shatalov's two-day solitude in orbit was over," Tass said.

Nixon Relaxes in Private

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon worked and relaxed in privacy and public silence today, as he has since coming to his Florida hideaway two days ago.

Press aide Bruce Whelihan said Nixon was at work on his inaugural address, with the assistance of two newly arrived staff members, Miss Rose Mary Woods, his personal secretary, and Raymond K. Price, a special assistant and speechwriter, arrived Wednesday.

Nixon had no comment on President Johnson's budget, sent to Congress Wednesday, and Whelihan said there would be none. The President-elect and the man he will succeed Monday talked on the telephone for about 40 minutes Tuesday night. Johnson placed the call to Nixon. The substance of their conversation was not disclosed.

Nixon is expected to remain in Key Biscayne until late Friday, spend a day in New York, then head for Washington on Sunday.

Charleston Votes to Pay

CHARLESTON—The city council agreed Tuesday night to pay one-half of the last six months rent of OEO Neighborhood Analysis office in Charleston.

The Chamber of Commerce pays the other part.

Cost to the city is $300.

Councilmen also voted to pave Plant Road, Iron Banks Road, Naomi street, High Street, Sherman street and Thorn street in 1969.

Accident Causes Minor Damage

Minor damage was reported in an auto accident this morning in front of the Mid-Towner Restaurant on East Malone.

Drivers of the cars were Ronald C. Unterreiner, Cape Girardeau, and Richie Wrather, Canalou. No one was injured.

Middle East Ripe for War

By MAX HARRELSON
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The tenuous Middle East peace structure appears near collapse again, this time as a result of mounting Arab commando raids and Israeli reprisals.

Despite a year of effort by U. N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, the situation has deteriorated rapidly to the point where many are expressing fear of a new all-out conflict.

This is reflected not only as statements from Arab and Israeli leaders, but in the efforts of the four big powers to seek an urgent peace settlement.

Some U. N. diplomats feel that Jarring's peace mission already is doomed and that nothing short of a big power pressure can save the situation at this stage.

Israel has taken a firm stand against any attempt of the Big Four to impose a settlement, but both the United States and the Soviet Union have a tremendous influence in the area and any agreement by them would be bound to carry weight.

One of the most recent causes for concern was the involvement of Lebanon in the new wave of clashes. Lebanon remained outside the lightning war of June 1967 and has maintained a moderate policy in comparison with other Arab countries.

The Palestine liberation forces, however, are using Lebanese territory as a base just as they use Jordanian, Egyptian, Syrian and other Arab countries. It is this which led to the Israeli commando attack on the Beirut airport Dec. 28 and the subsequent tension between Israel and Lebanon.

Nearly all the major incidents in the past year have involved the so-called Arab liberation forces and their raids into Israel.

The Arabs contend that the 1.3 million Arab refugees from Palestine have a legitimate right to seek the "liberation" of their former homeland and that these groups are patriots who deserve the help of other Arabs.

The result is a large-scale training program with bases in several Arab countries. One of the most widely publicized groups is Al Fatah, but the group which admitted responsibility for attacking an Israeli airliner at the Athens airport was the Popular Front of the Liberation of Palestine.

Israel has taken the position that the countries where these groups are based are responsible for their deeds just as they would be for the deeds of their own military forces.

The U. N. Security Council has appealed without success to all parties to avoid violence, but has skirted the question of responsibility for the commando groups.

Israel was censured twice and condemned three times by the Security Council in 1968. Three of these cases involved reprisal raids. Israel insists that the only way to stop the guerrilla activities is by the use of Israeli force and it has bluntly told the United Nations it will continue to strike back as long as the Arab attacks occur.

Russia Has Morehouse To Elect Officials

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — By successfully linking two manned space ships and transferring two crewmen, the Soviet Union has demonstrated it can assemble space stations for operations in earth orbit. But if they plan to beat Americans to a moon landing, the Russians will have to do much more.

Technical details of exactly how Russia plans to land cosmonauts on the lunar surface and return them to earth remain cloaked in secrecy. But knowledgeable western observers who specialize in assessing the Soviet space program generally believe cosmonauts don't have a chance of making it before 1970.

The United States, meanwhile, is expected to place its Apollo 11 astronauts on the lunar surface in mid-July of this year.

Peace Talk Seating Stalemate Broken

PARIS (AP) — The longstalled Vietnam peace talks are to begin Saturday, eight months after the preliminary discussions got under way.

With the consent of their allies, the United States and North Vietnam announced today a breakthrough in the filibuster about the shape of the table the negotiators will use.

The American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and National Liberation Front delegations will sit around an unmarked round table at the International Conference Center.

W. Averell Harriman, the U.S. ambassador who is retiring from the talks this weekend, said the solution represented no victory for any side.

"It was not suggested by any one person," he said. "It was not a compromise, but just a decision that all could agree to, and satisfactory to all the participants of the conference."

Harriman hailed the agreement as an important step on the road to peace, saying it is possible that the talks may get fairly quickly to substantive matters, perhaps by the time his successor, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrives in a week or 10 days.

In Saigon, Foreign Minister Tran Khanh Thanh insisted the talks will be two-sided—the United States and Saigon vs. Hanoi and the Viet Cong's front.

"This is the nearest we could get to the two sides we have been fighting for," Thanh said. "It looks like a victory if you go back to the original North Vietnamese demand for a four-sided conference."

Two rectangular tables for secretaries will flank the round table at a distance of about 18 inches, and Thanh suggested these are sufficient to satisfy Saigon's demand for two-sided talks since they indicate a division between the allied and Hanoi-Viet Cong negotiators.

A U.S. spokesman refused to characterize the agreement in any way, or to say whether it represented a concession by the U. S. Saigon side, which had been insistent all along on a marked table which would clearly show that the peace conference was two-sided.

Evidently the agreement was reached with the understanding that the two sides could view the conference in any way they chose, and the Americans and South Vietnamese still stress their view that it will be two-sided.

The sudden and unexpected breakthrough makes it possible for peace conference machinery to be in motion two days before the expiration of President Johnson's term of office.

But for some time it is expected the enlarged conference will deal with procedural matters before it finally gets down to talking about how to achieve peace in Vietnam.

Obviously, the two-sided, fourside disagreement continues but has been shunted aside by common consent.

The North Vietnamese spokesman characterized the coming meeting as four-sided. The Saigon spokesman stressed two sides.

Nguyen Than Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, said the conference would be made up of four delegations "to reflect the idea that they are equal." South Vietnam has stubbornly resisted the idea that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front should have a status of equality with the Saigon government.

The first meeting, opening at 10:30 a.m. — 4:30 a.m., EST — Saturday will thus be at a round table with four members of the delegation present, a total of 16, plus secretaries as needed.

The deputy heads of the delegations will be present, since there are still procedural matters to be discussed. Thus, Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance will represent the United States, Col. Ha Van Lau the North Vietnamese, Nguyen Phong the South Vietnamese and Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, the NLF.

Vance and Lau reached the agreement after two last-minute meetings, one of an hour and a half Wednesday another of a half hour this morning.

The shape of the table and speaking arrangements had been at the core of the wrangle which had held up the enlarged talks ever since President Johnson announced the end of the bombing of North Vietnam Oct. 31 and opened the way for a new phase of the conference.

The North Vietnamese spokesman, as if suggesting that the solution was a victory for his side, told newsmen Hanoi had proposed a round table as long ago as Dec. 12, and "the United States and the Saigon administration must bear the entire responsibility for the fact that it has taken to Jan. 18 for the conference to meet."

South Vietnam's spokesman insisted that the accord showed his governments good will.

There will be no flags or emblems in the conference room.

The first session, at least, will be held in private. The North Vietnamese said they wanted the meeting to be public but that the United States objected. The Americans said future meetings might be open to the press.

The agreement appears to have compromised the two-sided, four-side argument by leaving the table unmarked, but by arranging at the same time a speaking order which suggested two sides.

On the first day the Saigon-American side will speak first, and at the next meeting, the Hanoi-NLF side will speak first. For the Saturday meeting the allied side has designated Phong, Saigon's No. 2 man, as the speaker, followed by Vance.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief of the U.S. delegation, does not plan to remain in Paris, despite the agreement.

Johnson Draws 3 Lessons From Talk Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson hailed today the Paris agreement on the shape of a Vietnam conference table and said that now "new talks on the substance of peace in Southeast Asia can open."

Speaking at an unrelated ceremony in the White House cabinet room, Johnson said that three lessons are to be learned from America's experience since revolutionary force inside South Vietnam.

1. The speaking arrangements will be that each delegation on one side speaks in order and then each delegation on the other.

2. There are to be no flags or name plates in the conference hall, a provision which avoids special identification of the NLF as if its delegation represented a government instead of a revolutionary force inside South Vietnam.

3. The speaking arrangements will be that each delegation on one side speaks in order and then each delegation on the other.

Diplomats refer to this as the "AA, BB" formula. This means that if the United States speaks first, South Vietnam speaks second and then the two representatives on the other side speak.

Had the agreement not been reached with the North Vietnamese delegations sitting on one side and the North Vietnamese and NLF representatives on the other, the whole problem of opening the new round of talks would have gone over to the Nixon administration. Now the President will be in position to move forward on the substance of the talks—such issues as arrangements for troop withdrawal and the future of South Vietnam.

The use of a round table and nearby rectangular tables recalled a similar agreement made at the outset of Big Four talks on Germany at Geneva in 1949. Representatives of West Germany and communist East Germany were invited to attend but not as full participants along with the U.S., Britain, Russia and France.

The main table agreed upon after days of haggling was a

Heckemeyer Lands Agriculture Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — House Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, today released the membership of 37 House committees, including a new economics committee to pass on any bills that involve major expenditures.

The Senate has a similar watchdog committee.

Rep. Norbert Jasper, R-Washington, will be chairman of that important new house committee. Vice chairman will be Rep. Tom Ryan, D-Jackson County.

The committee list was made up before the unexpected death of Rep. Frank Mazzuca, D-Kansas City, early Tuesday and it still shows him as chairman once again of the Municipal Corporations Committee dealing with big city problems.

A replacement will have to be named. Vice Chairman is William R. Royster, D-Kansas City.

It had been known earlier that Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-Overland, would once more be chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee. His vice chairman will be Marvin Proffer, D-Jackson.

A number of committees will be directed by the same chairmen as last session.

Chairman and vice chairmen of other major committees:

Agriculture—W. D. Hibler, D-Brunswick and Tony Heckemeyer, R-Sikeston.

Atomic Energy and Industrial Development—Jay Russell, D-Florissant, and Lloyd J. Baker, D-Moberly.

Constitutional amendments — Robert Devoy, D-Brookfield, and John A. Grellner, D-Richmond Heights.

Education — James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, and Charles S. Broomfield, D-Kansas City.

Elections—Curt Davidson, D-Clinton, and Eugene Mazzuca, D-St. Louis.

Fees and salaries — Edward Cannon, D - Troy, and Stan Thomas Jr., D-Liberty.

Governmental organization — Tom Walsh, D-St. Louis, and Don Kennedy, D-Nevada.

Interior Affairs (including natural Resources)—Wayne Goode, D-St. Louis, and Roy King, D-Malden.

Judiciary—Kenneth J. Rothman, D - Clayton, and Jack Schramm, D-University City.

Women Waive Hearings In Separate Murder Cases

CHARLESTON — Two Mississippi county women charged with first degree murders have waived preliminary hearings and have been bound over to circuit court for trials.

This morning, Willie Mae Craig, 50, who is charged with murdering George McWherter, 59, Jan. 4, appeared in magistrate court to waive her hearing.

McWherter was stabbed to death in front of a Wyatt cafe. Inness Oliver, 607 Pecan St., who is charged with the Dec. 26 slaying of Nathaniel Gross, Wyatt, last week appeared and waived her hearing.

Gross was killed at Miss Oliver's home with a .22 caliber rifle.

Both women are being held in the county jail.

Trial dates have not been set.

Four SEMO Towns Named

Sikeston has been designated one of four growth centers in the Bootheel Economic Development District.

Other cities approved yesterday by the Economic Development Administration in Washington, D.C. were: Dexter, Bloomfield and New Madrid.

Growth center designation means that future grants will have an additional 10 per cent federal funds for projects in the four cities.

Pat Lea, Sikeston, district chairman, said today this designation was made within nine months after the council was formed, the shortest period of time a region has ever received approval.

Lea said projects previously approved for the six-county region are not eligible for the 10 per cent bonus.

Counties in the district are New Madrid, Dunklin, Mississippi, Scott, Pemiscot and Stoddard.

Announcement of approval was made by Missouri Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton, and Congressman Bill Burlison.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS! NOTED AND PASSED

On The Supreme Court: Recent rulings by the Supreme Court "make the trial of a felony twice as long and twice as difficult." These are the words of the ranking Jurist in the State of New York, Justice Saul S. Streit.

"We spend more time deciding whether the new legalisms propounded by the United States Supreme Court in these decisions have been complied with than we do to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendant."

The Green Berets Victory: When the John Wayne film based on the Green Berets in Vietnam was released, that critics panned it unmercifully. Hollywood and Broadway circles predicted it would be a financial disaster. To date it has earned almost $11 million, and ranks as one of the most successful movies in the last five years.

Says John Wayne, whose brand of patriotism is the target for the gliberal reviewers: "The ridiculously one-sided criticism of the picture only made people more conscious of it and they are proving that the reviews were not very effective."

"Most critics reviewed the war and not the picture..."

One Green Beret's Escape: Major James N. Rowe described his escape after 5 years as a prisoner with this understatement: "The Vietcong were in one area and I got one guard to separate with me. At that one point the guard became unconscious and I got to the chopper."

Student Strike: Japan's giant Tokyo University has suffered a student strike of 6 months' duration and is contemplating closing entirely for one year. Said Tokyo President Ichiro Kato: "I regretfully see no prospect that we can hold entrance examinations for next year. We recognize the grave impact this will have on our society... At the same time, it would be even more irresponsible to admit new applicants to a university where no education can be conducted."

A Drawing Rights Bracelet: "One need not carry cynicism as far as those who say that it will be many a long day before a wife will greet with delight the husband who brings her a necklace or a bracelet made of Special Drawing Rights. All the same, this is a vivid way of pointing out how misleading it is to represent these Special Drawing Rights - of paper gold - as they are sometimes called - as a kind of substitute for monetary gold." - Dr. Samuel Schweizer, Chairman of the Board, Swiss Bank Corporation.

One of the most amusing sights greeting visitors to Central Park several years ago was former first lady Jacquelyn Kennedy spinning around the park's paths on her bicycle, carrying John - John in a passenger seat. Trailing the twosome at a distance of 10 feet, on foot was the sweating secret service man.

The most tiresome man is the man who thinks he is "a good talker." He has a lot of set phrases which really mean nothing at all. Such a man is really another idle man.

THE DEMOCRATS REBUILD

The Democrats already are looking toward 1972. Party revitalization and reform will be stressed at the first post-election meeting of the Democratic National Convention on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at Washington's Mayflower Hotel, which is traditionally Democrat Country.

National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien on Nov. 23 announced the appointment of "two groups which will deal with organizational matters leading toward the 1972 Democratic Convention." These were a rules commission and a special commission directed to help state Democrats to meet their responsibilities in selecting convention delegates. The 1968 convention had approved a resolution which specifically banned use of the unit rule at all levels of delegate selection for 1972.

One of the items on Tuesday's agenda will be selection of an executive committee composed of committeemen and women selected from and by the four DNC regional groupings. Another will be the future of O'Brien himself. He says he wants to go back to private business. However, he is under pressure from a number of party leaders to stay as chairman. Humbert H. Humphrey intends to help choose a successor if O'Brien does step down.

Another problem is the status of Earl Goodwin, national committeeman from Alabama, and others who cut the Humphrey-Muskie ticket in November. Goodwin is unworried. He told the Birmingham News, Doex, 12: "All a committeeman could do in the next four years would be to try to help raise funds to get the party out of debt."

We often wonder

a) Why drivers delay until dark to switch on their lights;

b) Why drivers pass at over - the - speed - limit, then cut back in front of the car so quickly;

c) Why drivers pass, or cut in and out, to get ahead of just one car at a traffic light;

d) Why drivers knowingly exceed the speed limit, constantly look for the patrol car to gain five miles in 60 minutes?

Governor Hearnes seems to be catching hell from the Metropoliticans papers because he did not tell the Legislature what to do about raising taxes in his budget message.

We commend the Governor for his good sense. Why give the mavricks in the legislators fuel to say that the Governors office will not run the legislature during his second term.

The constitution prohibits the state from deficit financing so all the Governor could do was to present a budget that would call for expenditures of only the foreseeable money.

Now lets see how the House and Senate Leadership will do the job they say they will not let the Governor do.

PENSION FUNDS HIGH

Cash and securities held in the major statelocal government retirement systems reached a new high of $39.3 billion in June 1967, up $4 billion (11 per cent) from the year before, according to Tax Foundation Inc.

The average taxpayer does not realize that (in addition to preparing for his own retirement) he is paying taxes for the retirement benefits of hundreds of thousands of workers in the 2,165 state-local government pension systems in the U. S. today.

In 1967, for example, the nation's taxpayers paid about 46 per cent of the $6 billion total - while the workers contributed 30 per cent. Earnings on investments accounted for the balance.

While we have no axe to grind over state-local government workers benefiting from a pension, certainly this is another reason why these same workers should not be allowed to strike and stop serving the public who provide same.

Trial & Error. In Pittsburgh, Daniel A. Marra admitted in court that he used to beat his wife, but gave it up "when I found out it was not doing any good."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.)

"I have always been in favor of employees, including Federal employees, having the right to choose whether or not they wish to belong to a union."

Undisputed Man of the Year is District Judge Carmon Harris of Oklahoma City who imposed a lashing on the bare back of a youth, in lieu of a prison term.

"I have tried deferred sentences and suspended sentences but this does not seem to do any good," the judge told the prisoner. "Maybe a little oldtime corporal punishment will make you realize that when you break the law you must pay the penalty."

What with high court pampering of convicted criminals in extreme deference to the Bill of Rights, and the uncertainty of punishment, some discreet flogging on the trail court level might be an answer.

Conditions warrant the recommendation that we re-establish the public whipping post.

More power to Judge Harris and others of his estimable persuasion.

Every gossip knows who the other gossips are.

A man never looks like he is attending to business if a dog is following him.

THOSE TAX LOOPHOLES

While some politicians have been so busy shouting about "tax loopholes," the so-called devices by which taxpayers may escape their fair share of taxes, little attention has been paid to the fact that there is another kind of tax loophole - wasteful and excessive spending by government. Through this loophole tax funds drain across the countryside to perpetuate the jobs of bureaucrats and office holders.

Take just one instance - the expanding federal grants - in - aid programs - and we can name others.

There are 400 separate congressional authorizations for grants - in - aid machinery, administered by 18 federal departments and agencies. Grants - in - aid expenditures have risen from $8 billion in 1963 to $20.3 billion for the current fiscal year. And from 1963 through fiscal 1968, a total of $96.5 billion was distributed to states and localities.

The last Congress did pass a measure to review periodically grants - in - aid programs. It is time the private citizens remembered that the tax-loophole coin has two sides.

Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.)

"I would not support legislation for a closed shop in government service, and I hope that Senator Wallace Bennett's bill will lead to a Congressional review of this situation in the near future."

The women we read of in print are either very good or very bad; the delightful average is found only in private life.

NEW YORK (AP)—Back in Lincoln, Neb., where I come from, there used to be an old cigar store, not far from the center of town, that featured chess and sandwiches.

The sandwiches were all right and you could get a pretty good lunch for two bits but the chess was extraordinary. Nothing cloistered about it.

To play in that company, the special skills required were temporary deafness, to shut out the exhortations of kibitzers, and ability to figure out chess combinations under the pressure of outspoken heckling. If you were a weak character you might even find the kibitzers moving the pieces for you.

When the proprietor decided to make the best of a raucous situation by charging a dime a game, the customers thinned out a little. But I never did get up the nerve to play a game there.

It was only natural nevertheless that when I came to New York I should gravitate to the chess parlor on the third floor of a dingy old building near the center of town at 42nd and Broadway. I still go there.

There, after pushing through crowds of tourists and mincing homos and gawkers and ladies on the prowl, you find a large bare room lighted by unshaded bulbs and strewn with chess tables and players and empty coffee cups, and kibitzers.

You can buy sandwiches at the parlor too and while away an evening watching characters thrust and parry across the checkered boards, at 40 cents an hour apiece, while taking an occasional glance at other

Some of the players look as if they might feel more at home in the Bowery. Others are aggressive types from the Seventh Avenue garment district around the corner. Or college students who have brought time clocks to simulate tournament conditions. There are also business men relaxing.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON: Sen. Fulbright holds secret hearings for state department confirmations; Under Secretary Richardson has alcoholic record; His record otherwise is good.

WASHINGTON—Sen. William Fulbright, the Rhodes Scholar from Arkansas, has ditched his creed of open covenants openly arrived at to hold secret hearings on the confirmation of William P. Rogers as Secretary of state and Elliot Richardson as under secretary.

Both appear to be highly qualified men and in the past chairman Fulbright has raised Hades with the Johnson administration for too much secrecy.

One point in the career of Elliott Richardson is unfortunate and could be a reason for Chairman Fulbright's secret hearings. Richardson, now Attorney General of Massachusetts, was a far-sighted HEW Executive under Eisenhower. He had a good record in government except for alcoholism.

Prospective under secretary of state Richardson should also be given the breaks. But the public also is entitled to the facts. Furthermore, publication of the facts may help keep a public figure on the wagon.

Richardson's 15 automobile convictions extend over a period from 1938 to 1964, including two states, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and the District of Columbia. Most of his arrests, though involving speeding, appear to be minor, but three involved driving under the influence of liquor with serious fines and license suspended.

FIRST BRUSH

WITH LAW

The new Under Secretary of State's first significant brush with the law was at the age of 19 when much could be forgiven if he had learned from this lesson. Richardson was arrested on May 6, 1939, at 8:30 P.M. for liquor on Beacon Street in Boston. The arresting officer, Walter F. Waite, stated that Richardson had collided with a safely island and his car had to be towed to the Uptown Garage.

Richardson was very abusive at the time of his arrest and threatened to have me fired," Officer Waite stated. "He stated that his Uncle Henry L. Shattuck took care of the case and then take care of me. Richardson was very profane and disorderly at the time."

Richardson subsequently pleaded guilty to "operating a motor vehicle so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered" and to driving "under the influence of intoxicating liquor." He was fined a total of $75 and his license suspended.

Richardson's worst brush with the law came 12 years later on an April night in 1951 when at 2 A.M. he struck a stop sign at 347 Clark Road in Brookline, then traveled through a hedge alongside the sidewalk.

DEMOCRATS ARE TOLERANT

The arresting officer, Neil F.

Doherty of the Brookline Police force, stated: "On about 11:30 A.M. April 22, 1951, I commenced an investigation of a reported hit-and-run property damage accident. The accident occurred at about 2 a.m. this date. I interviewed the defendant (Elliot Richardson) and asked him if he had an accident last night or this morning and he said no.

I asked him about the hedge and the twigs on the front of his car, and he said he could not account for them. I asked him where he was, and he said at a party in Cambridge. I asked him if he had been drinking, and he said yes. He stated he had been drinking cocktails. I asked him if he was drunk, and he said he did not think so. I said, 'you were at least under the influence of liquor,' and he said that he guessed that he was."

Richardson pleaded guilty and paid a $200 fine. His license was suspended.

While in Washington, D.C., in 1949, Richardson also had his license suspended for 30 days, but the record is not clear regarding the details. On January 24, 1964, he was arrested for speeding at Framington, New Hampshire, and fined $15. There were 11 other arrests, most of them minor.

During the last Republican Administration, approximately 50 state Department officials were forced to "resign" because of alcoholism or kindred problems which allegedly made them security risks. The present Democratic Congress plans to be more lenient with the new Republican Administration. A man of Richardson's otherwise excellent talents should not be lost to government -- provided he can overcome a weakness which is not controlled could be serious.

Knoxville, Tenn. The outdoor nylon carpeting is said to have all the bounce, reaction, roll and bite of bent grass and according to the resident professional, puts better than any natural green.

But there's a serpent (or two) in every paradise. It just means another hazard for weekend duffers to look out for -- vacuum cleaners. And instead of greens fees, there'll be carpet tax.

NARROW EDITS???????

NOT DOING ENOUGH!

While planners and politicians talk of the government, rebuilding cities, guaranteeing jobs, underwriting medical care, education, social security, housing, cheap electricity, and Lord knows what else, a few facts about taxes are pertinent.

Total taxes estimated to be collected in fiscal 1968 by all levels of government in the U.S. will equal about $3,550 per American family, up $134 from last year. Twelve years ago, taxes make them useful in a number of capacities during the local governments combined campaign. They would be equivalent to the $1,897 per family. Total tax receipts in fiscal 1968 will exceed 1967 receipts by about $10 billion. They will be over $100 billion higher than a dozen years ago. The collections in 1968 will provide $148 billion for the federal government and $69 billion for state and local governments.

There are still those who say that taxpayers are not doing enough! There are millions more of us raising families and running businesses under the mounting pressure of taxes and inflation who say that government is doing too much--much more than even the wealthiest nation on earth can afford!

H.L. Hunt Says

HONOR GUARD FOR LIBERTY

Widespread agreement exists among the American people that the Electoral College System should be reformed. "Reform" means a change for the better. Under the Congressional District Plan, which requires a constitutional amendment, the change really would be for the better. Both major political parties would necessarily nominate the best available candidates for electors.

Four-fifths of these electors would serve the voters of the 435 Congressional Districts. Their qualifications and attributes would be quite well known to the voters of their respective Districts. The two electors-at-large from each state would be as well known as candidates for governor and other state offices, perhaps better known.

The high calibre of candidates for elector would last year. Twelve years ago, taxes make them useful in a number of capacities during the local governments combined campaign. They would be equivalent to the $1,897 per family. Total tax receipts in fiscal 1968 will exceed 1967 receipts by about $10 billion. They will be over $100 billion higher than a dozen years ago. The collections in 1968 will provide $148 billion for the federal government and $69 billion for state and local governments.

There are still those who say that taxpayers are not doing enough! There are millions more of us raising families and running businesses under the mounting pressure of taxes and inflation who say that government is doing too much--much more than even the wealthiest nation on earth can afford!

These electors could become an Honor Guard for liberty. As Former Nominees of Presidential Elector Committee, they would be in a position to perform a continuing service. HLH

New 'Presidency': Nixon Calls in Old Enemies In Search for Dramatic Proposals

NEW YORK: -- What Richard Nixon really ran last weekend was more a cultural congress than a preinauguration cabinet conclave.

There were intellectuals in abundant numbers -- any one of whom six months ago would have challenged you to a pre-dawn duel on Central Park's sheep meadow at the mere insinuation that he was going to rub shoulders with chairmen of Mr. Nixon's 22 task forces.

But the liberals, the gadflies, the voices of the old conservative left, even the new left and veterans of Sen. McCarthy's war-front headquarters in Chicago, were here.

Mr. Nixon and the men of his inner sanctums knew they were here. They came by invitation, not infiltration.

They made up a strange new world of thought, an economic, intellectual, philosophical and cultural conglomerate, bankers, academicians, hardliners, financiers, construction magnates, Wall Street lawyers, hawks and doves.

That's the way Dick Nixon wants it. That's the way he has had it for some weeks now.

"The intellectuals who have been in and out of government and political parties," said one Nixon intimate, "are the best critics of what has happened. They are lively guides to what should be done. There's a climate of anxiety and hope, and this willingness to rub shoulders can only help the nation. They are a great mixture."

Typical is the task force on voluntary action, directed at "solving" the urban and suburban crises. In effect, its assignment, as handed to Richard Cornell of the Center for Independent Action (no initials, please), is to get the inner cities and the savants to solve matters by substituting energy for money, meaning self-help and private financing, and thus build "bridges to dignity."

Its hideaway last Friday was the Hotel Plaza, that umbilical link with Diamond Jim Brady's day, caty-cornered from the Hotel Pierre. This task force is indeed a conglomerate -- running all the way from Al Cole, from chairman of the Reader's Digest Executive Committee, to the at the Pierre last weekend, "this Richard Goodwin and Irving is a new kind of presidency."

Actually it's the electric application of an old theory: shoulders in behalf of Richard Nixon's leadership takes considerable doing. A more give for his country.

sweeping united front never has been welded.

It has been quite a route for the acidly gaddy Dick Goodwin -- Harvard Law, Felix Frankfurter, John Kennedy, Bob Kennedy, Dean Rusk, Lyndon Johnson, Sen. McCarthy, a pass at Ted Kennedy and now on to a Nixon task force.

It was Dick Goodwin who whipped phrases into some of John Kennedy's best speeches. It was Goodwin who went to the Punta Del Este Latin American conference for Dean Rusk. It was Goodwin who linked Sen. Gene McCarthy to the new youth and gave the politically meandering poet a voice in the village of hippy and flower power.

It even is strange to see Goodwin sit with Irvig Kristol, a young old Social Democrat who once edited the brilliant London monthly Encounter for the Congress For Cultural Freedom.

Mr. Kristol is a conservative liberal's comfort. He's as intellectual as any and knows his way through the labyrinthine old left of Max Eastman, The New Leader, and Commentary.

Dick Goodwin and Irving Kristol have their prototypes on other task forces devoted to crime, pollution, civil rights, fiscal management, education, public welfare, health and government welfare.

These are men who have not pledged to kiss and not tell -- or not denounce. They are not bound by any pledges of secrecy and some are saying that "little will come of this."

But it is a political risk Richard Nixon took quite deliberately in his search for sparkling ideas, his demands for program evaluation, in his urging, upon his own command headquarters people for the redefining of the structure of government, programming and legislation.

"What we wanted, despite this high political risk," said one of those who gets up to the 39th floor, "was to get the idea solve matters by substituting energy for money, meaning self-help and private financing, and thus build 'bridges to dignity.'"

It's a daring concept. Mr. Nixon does not intend to isolate himself, nor his White House, from it. He too is willing to rub shoulders. As someone said over Executive Committee, "this Richard Goodwin and Irving is a new kind of presidency."

Actually it's the electric application of an old theory: shoulders in behalf of Richard Nixon's leadership takes considerable doing. A more give for his country.

Bare Look PTA News New Arrivals

ROME (AP)—The Italian Teachers Association met opening Friday promise to bare Monday.
Those who favor bare skin promises lots on show, only lightly veiled by the flimsiest of sheers. Another advocate of see-through look is Heinz Riva, with transparent evening gowns worn over form-fitting pants and the skimpy bras. From the same house are city suits accompanied by nothing more than a matching bra in place of the usual blouse.

At Ognibene Zandman, a black cotton trouser suit will feature daring cutouts. "My new collection will be just a little frivolous," says Valentino, Italy's big name fashion designer.

The showings will run to Jan. 23, with 34 fashion houses presenting their latest creations. Menswear also will be on view as well as accessories, luggage and other fashion goodies.

Valentino, Mila Schon, Fabiani, Forquet and Capucci are just a few of the star-studded names on the seven-day program.

Valentino reveals that he will show a lighthearted line but refuses to elaborate. It is certain that the many wealthy women who are his clients will be vying with one another to snap up his "frivolities."

Most designers report they will show a fairly fitted line with plenty of emphasis on the waist. Belts will be important although the fad for the chain variety seems to be on the wane.

There will be plenty of pants. Now considered as much a part of the female wardrobe as coats or dresses, they will be shown for day and evening, teamed with hip-length jackets or flaring tunics.

Mrs. Irene Bowen dismissed the class with prayer.

Mrs. Fred McWilliams and the program committee met and filled out the year book.

Ten members were in attendance.

THREE-RING HISTORY OF RINGLINGS
THOSE AMAZING RINGLINGS AND THEIR CIRCUS. By Gene Plowden. Caxton Printers, Ltd. $6.50.

For circus buffs, this is a massively detailed history of "The Greatest Show on Earth," not from the vantage point of the sawdust ring, but from the backstage area where the show was run.

It begins in the 1880s at Baraboo, Wis., where "Ringling Bros. Classic and Comic Concert Co." soon was converted into a circus. It relates the long career of the five brothers through boom and bust, the mergers, the highly profitable days of the 1920s, the dwindling size of the operation in the later years, and down to the present time, when arenas and auditoriums are used instead of "the big top."

But especially this is the story of John Ringling, the youngest of the five, and his remarkable rise and meteoric fall. John was the most colorful personality in an exceedingly colorful business.

SEMO Grapplers Wins Millikin Title

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The Southeast Missouri State College wrestling team, which won the Millikin University Invitational over the weekend, will not return to the mats until Jan. 24 when the squad begins a between-semester swing into Kentucky, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

A home match scheduled for Saturday (Jan. 18) has been reset for Feb. 1. It will pit Southeast Missouri State against Southwestern of Memphis.

Originally Principia College of Elmhurst, Ill., had been slated to participate, but the college has dropped wrestling as a varsity sport, according to Cape coach Ken Tillman.

The Jan. 24, outing for the Indian matmen will be against Centre College in Danville, Ky. On Jan. 25, the squad will move east to Morehead, Ky., for a double duel against Morehead State and the University of Cincinnati.

The wrestlers will invade Appalachian State College of Boone, N. C., on Jan. 27 and face the University of Tennessee at Knoxville on Jan. 28.

Cape's win in the Millikin event at Decatur, Ill., marked the third straight time the Indians have captured the championship of this invitational.

The Indian grapplers compiled 69 team points to 56 for Elmhurst, 52 for Millikin, 50 for Illinois Wesleyan, and 49 for Hillsdale.

Two Indians also garnered individual championships. Paul Lapinski of Granite City, Ill., won the 123-pound class.

Coach Tillman also cited for "outstanding performances" Gerald Hunt, a 115-pound freshman from Falls Church, Va., and Gary Oxford, a 123-pound sophomore from Manchester, Mo.

Southeast Missouri's wrestling record stands now at 1-2 in dual meets, a fifth place finish in the Southwest Missouri Invitational, and a championship in the Millikin University Invitational.

Neelyville, Fisk Into Finals

NEELYVILLE - Four County basketball tournament approaches the semi-finals as the host varsity team, Neelyville, won over the Naylor Eagles 72-43. In the junior varsity division of the tourney, Fisk succeeded in downing Elsinoire, 57-42.

Neelyville's victory came with the big assistance of two players who played their first game of the season for the Tigers tonight. Roy Fields and Charles Allen helped their team in both the scoring and rebounding departments as Fields scored 32 and had 19 rebounds, and Allen scored two points and came down with 12.

Charles Moffitt, head coach for the Tigers, stated that his boys played real good offensive ball, hitting 48 percent of it's field goals, but played below par defense, especially in the first half of action.

Naylor was out tallied by the Tigers in each quarter and were down the most of the first and third as Neelyville had a 19 point edge in each of these periods.

High scorers for neelyville were Roy Fields with 32, Gerald Corban with 15, and Larry Wills with 13.

Eagles had only one player in double figures as John Armour netted 16.

In the junior varsity battle, Stevenson was the high man for Fisk with 25 and Richmond came through with 28 for Elsinoire.

Tomorrow night's action will see Fisk going against Quin in the top division of play and Neelyville will meet Naylor in the junior varsity contest.

Consolation games will be played Friday and the finals of the competition will be held Saturday night.

Sports Corner

Professional rodeo cowboys had a record-breaking year in 1968, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said reported.

There were 521 association-sanctioned rodeos across the nation and in Canada this year, paying nearly $3.7 million in prize money. "This is the most ever won in one year by rodeo contestants," said Gene Pruett, the association's executive secretary-treasurer.

The season-ending National Finals Rodeo, annually reserved for only the top 15 money-winners in each of six events, set new attendance records. Some 58,000 fans saw this year's classic in early December in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Pruett said attendance at pro rodeos in 1969 is again expected to climb, due in large measure to increasing recognition of the sport by the news media.

Larry Mahan, 25, Brooks, Ore., this year became only the third contestant to win the coveted All Around Cowboy title three times. Previous three-time winners were Oklahoma's John Shoulters and Idaho's Dean Oliver.

Mahan claimed his first All Around crown in 1966 by pocketing $40,358. Last year he won a record $51,996, and this year he garnered $49,129.

1968 EVENT CHAMPIONS
Glen Franklin, 31, House, N. M., won his third world calf roping title with earnings of $33,252, a new event record and also the most ever won in any single event.

Clyde Vamvoras, 26, Burkburnett, Tex., claimed his second consecutive bareback bronc riding championship by winning $24,832, breaking the old record of $25,473 set in 1966 by Iowa's Paul Mayo.

Shawn Davis, 27, Whitehall, Mont., for the third time won the world's saddle bronc riding title, winning $22,697. Davis set the event record of $25,599 in 1965.

Jack Roddy, 31, San Jose, Calif., won $29,315 and his second steer wrestling crown. This is the second highest ever won in the event; Oklahoma's Roy Duvall pocketed $30,715 in 1967.

George Paul, 21, Del Rio, Tex., in only his second year as a pro, won the bull riding title and $27,822. He was fourth last year.

Art Arnold, 28, Buckeye, Ariz., claimed the team roping title by winning $12,823. He was second in 1956.

Sonny Davis, 33, Kenna, N. M., won the steer roping championship with $6,438, only $122 short of the record he set in 1964 when he snared the first of his three titles.

AT LEAST six new regional champions will be crowned in state high school basketball circles this season.

With state champion Matthews dropped to S classification, this sets up a new winner at Fredericktown. It was Illinois Scott City last season.

With state champion O'Fallon Tech no longer in operation, the field at Normandy is without a defending Class L regional king.

The same is true of the L meets at Hillsboro and Lexington. The opening was left at Hillsboro when Flat River Central dropped from L to M classification.

A realignment left the Lexington meet without a 1968 titlist. Two, DeLaSalle and Southeast, are together in the Kansas City regional.

Two regional victors last season, Festus St. Pius and St. Louis Prep South, are together in the Hillsboro meet and the Bowling Green tournament is without a defending titlist.

The only new winner assured in Class S is in the Clarkton regional, where title was left vacant when Howardville, last year's state runner-up, consolidated with its Parent-the Lilbourn district.

Biggest school in the playoffs will be Hazelwood with an enrollment of 6,322. St. Louis Lutheran South is the smallest L entry at 628.

Schools in the M classification range from Hancock, 620, to four with enrollments of 202-Concordia, Huntsville Westran, Ellsinore and Oran.

Big S school is Rock Port at 199 and the smallest is Wheeling, with 28 pupils.

Third-place games have been eliminated from regional meets as of this season.

THE SEMO coaches handed the Harlem Stars a defeat at Bell City last week in a game for the benefit of the Cubs booster club.

Naemon "Pete" Townsend led the winners in scoring with 30 points with John Boyd adding 24, Neal Botsch 17 and Vivian Reed 10.

Ninth Ranked Villanova Upset

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wildcats of Villanova ran afoul of the cool cats of Pennsylvania Wednesday night. The result was a Penn slowdown that left Villanova Coach Jack Kraft doing a slow burn after the unheralded Quakers upset the ninth-ranked Wildcats 22-30.

The only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action was the fourth-ranked Davidson Wildcats, who scratched out a 90-82 triumph over stubborn Wake Forest.

A long jump shot by sophomore Steve Bilsky with three seconds left gave Penn its dramatic victory and saddled Villanova with its second loss in 12 starts.

The Quakers froze the ball after Villanova's high-scoring Howard Porter, who managed only three points all night, missed a free throw with 3:35 remaining. Villanova stayed in its zone and finally Penn called time out with 26 seconds left and again five seconds later.

"The play was set up for either me or Dave Wohl to take a jumper," Bilsky explained. "I looked at the clock and saw there were only seven seconds left. It was a little further out than I usually shoot from, but I knew there wouldn't be time to set up a better shot." Coach Dick Harter, who resorted to the slowdown several times in the past, was ecstatic.

Stoddard County
Tournament Set

Advance and Dexter were seeded first in their respective A and B brackets for the Stoddard County Tournament which gets underway Jan. 27 at Bloomfield.

Six teams Advance, Bell City, Bernie, Richland, Bloomfield, and Puxico make up the conference, with Dexter and Woodland being invited to fill out the eight team bracket.

All of the eight teams play each other during the season with the exception of Dexter and Woodland, who do not meet each other.

Four games will be played the first two days of the tournament, with two games in each division scheduled.

LBJ Admits Economy Not All Rosy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today in his final Economic Report that he's leaving behind a solid foundation for continued prosperity, but he conceded that his success will have to deal with major problems in the economy.

The President, in sending his report to Congress, said the United States has experienced an unprecedented period of prosperity in the last eight years, all under Democratic administrations. This has permitted, he said, major investments which should insure continued economic growth for the indefinite future.

To support Johnson's case, the Economic Report listed investments in:

- Industrial plant and equipment, which has grown by nearly a third in five years.
- Manpower, more than a million persons have acquired skills through government-aided programs.
- Education, which has seen a spectacular increase of 22 million in college enrollments since 1963.
- Urban centers which, the President said, are beginning to be restored "as decent places to live."

Johnson said, "The nation is now in its 95th month of continuous economic advance. Both in strength and length, this prosperity is without parallel in our history."

"We have steered clear of the business-cycle recessions which for generations derailed us repeatedly from our path of growth and progress."

But the president saw one flaw in his generally rosy economic analysis—the wage-price spiral which became especially serious in 1968.

He insisted that this was caused in no small part by the failure of Congress to enact the 10 per cent income surtax in January, 1967, when he first asked for it. The bill passed 18 months later.

Congressional critics have said this delay resulted largely from a refusal by Johnson and his Defense Department to present the true costs of the Vietnam war at the time they first became obvious.

In any event, Johnson declared in his report that the job of combining national prosperity with price stability "is the biggest remaining overall challenge facing the nation."

Industrial countries have never solved this problem of inflation, said Johnson, and the United States could not solve it either in the short-term future. But he expressed confidence that eventually an answer would be found. "There is no simple nor single formula for success," he commented. "But this combination (high employment and stable prices) can and must be achieved by the United States and within the next several years."

"Now that we have learned to sustain prosperity, we can surely not allow inflation to erode or erase that victory."

The solution, he advocated, lean heavily on the so-called "New Economics."

Cutting taxes and raising government spending in periods of economic slowdown, the opposite when booms threaten to get out of hand; higher interest rates in inflationary times, lower ones in slack periods.

But the President said there also must be other steps. One of these, he said, is steady improvement in the productivity of American industries and workers. Another is voluntary agreement by both business and labor to restrain themselves in raising prices and demanding wage boosts.

Johnson said he recommended a $35 billion budget surplus and extension of the surtax as "a tight and prudent program" appropriate to the present inflationary period. He estimated that this would hold the increase in the nation's output of goods and services to $60 billion in 1969 compared to the $71 billion recorded in 1968.

The overall gains will not be as large as those in 1968, but they will make for a highly prosperous year," he said.

Without this restraint, said Johnson, serious economic pitfalls were possible. A demand could arise for wage and price controls, he said, and imposing them would mean "a dead end for economic freedom and progress."

In addition to maintaining prosperity with price stability, Johnson said the Nixon administration would face three other major economic problems. He described them this way:

"We must more fully secure the foundations of the world monetary system and of our own balance of payments."

"We must fulfill our many unmet public needs such as good education, efficient transportation, clean air and pure water. Quality as well as quantity is the key to a better life."

"We must share more equitably the fruits of prosperity among all our citizens. A nation as prosperous as ours cannot afford to leave any citizen in poverty."

Members of the Council of Economic Advisers, whose report was submitted along with that of the President, endorsed his budget, and predicted they should act to hold price increases to around 3 per cent in 1969, compared with 5 per cent in 1968.

The economists said they had been greatly surprised at the failure of the income surtax to slow the economy more during the last half of 1968, but said that the tax and the federal budget surplus should take hold in the first six months of 1969 and bring a "significant slowdown."

In his farewell message, the President said he had become fully confident Americans are determined "to provide a good job, a decent standard of living, quality education and a pleasing environment for everyone."

"We have begun to make progress toward these aspirations," he said.

"But we have only begun. And because we have so far to go, many of us are impatient. This feeling is in the great American tradition. High aspirations and impatience have constantly spurred us to greater achievements."

"And they will again. Our economy will not rest on the laurels of the 1960's. We will not relax to count or consolidate our gains. We will not retreat from the unprecedented prosperity we have achieved. This nation will remain on the march."

Johnson used the economic message to put in a last plug for numerous proposals, some submitted previously, which he said would mean a better life for Americans.

These included expanded grants and loans to bring a college education in the reach of every qualified student, bigger workman's compensation payments, an expanded unemployment compensation system, increased Social Security payments, a shorter waiting period of Social Security disability benefits, and expansion of the food stamp program.

He said also that the gold price should stay at $35 an ounce, that an urban mass transportation trust fund should be created out of auto excise tax revenues, and that Congress should resist the efforts of protectionists to erect trade barriers.

The President said he was highly gratified that the U.S. balance of international payments was in the black in 1968 for the first time in 11 years. But he conceded that this resulted at least in part from temporary factors and that therefore the basic problem remained for his successor.

New Agriculture Budget Offers No New Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed Wednesday outlays of $6,953,318,000 for the Agriculture Department in fiscal 1970, a reduction of $460,082,000 from the fiscal year.

Johnson proposed neither major new farm programs nor changes in price support or other policies.

Early changes aren't expected from the Nixon administration either, Secretary designate Clifford M. Hardin has indicated he will seek the views of farmers and farm organizations before proposing major shifts in policy.

Major emphasis in the 1970 fiscal year, Johnson said, will be given to:

- The rural part of the new 10-year nationwide housing program to help low-income families afford better housing.
- Expansion of loan programs for farm operations, farm ownership, and nonfarm enterprises to help low-income farmers and rural people.

Public investments for health care, education and training in rural communities to help the rural labor force and encourage private investment and industry in rural America.

Johnson proposed outlays for farm income stabilization totaling $2.9 billion, a decrease of $388 million from this fiscal year. Smaller crops of wheat and soybeans anticipated in 1969 and increased utilization of feed grains and soybeans, he said, account for most of the decrease. The nation's farmers in 1968 raised record crops of both wheat and soybeans.

Three major problems, Johnson said, still plague the American farmer and rural areas: excess farm productive capacity, inadequate income for many rural people, and declining rural communities. The President said the Farmers Home Administration will expand its loan commitments in 1970, with the largest increase going to the new 10-year housing program for low-income people in rural areas.

Republicans See Budget Deficit Instead of Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans in Congress are complaining that the $196.3 billion spending budget submitted to Congress by President Johnson will produce a deficit instead of the surplus that Johnson claimed.

Democrats, meanwhile, indicated they will wait to see President-elect Nixon's legislative program before they act to put Johnson's proposals for full funding of welfare programs into effect.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said his fellow Republicans are waiting to "get the figuring straight" before pouncing on Johnson's contention that his budget would give Nixon a $3.4 billion surplus in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

But Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, pinpointed the GOP's main objection. He said Johnson had counted on revenue surpluses being piled up in trust fund accounts for future Social Security and Medicare benefits.

"What really counts," Miller said, "is the regular operating accounts. If deficits occur in these, they must be covered by increased federal borrowing—the root cause of the inflation that has been sweeping the country."

"This is a deceptive budget," Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a Senate Armed Services Committee member, said the course of the Vietnam war will have a heavy influence on the budget.

The responsibility lies with the President-elect to suggest action in a variety of fields," he said. "Hopefully there will be an early meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee to identify the areas in which the party ought to move to meet the needs."

"I am sure we will want to develop our own priorities but we must wait to see what Mr. Nixon proposes."

Recession Feared at War's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — A more than $1 trillion—one thousand billion—by 1972, the Cabinet-level report to President Johnson warns that the United States faces a possible recession when the Vietnam war ends, and urges that the government be ready with an action plan to stop it.

The report, sent to Congress today by the President, said the economy would be subjected to the same deflationary pressures that followed the Korean War.

While not predicting any date for an end to hostilities in Vietnam, the committee of top White House advisers based estimates on an assumption that the transition to peace could be essentially completed by July 1, 1971—in other words, the start of the 1972 fiscal year.

The report said that if the gradually, requiring reduced current 10 per cent income tax is still in effect when the lengthy armed truce which a fighting ends, earlier phase-out would not permit a significant reduction of U. S. forces in recession and promote healthy Southeast Asia.

But on its assumption that a detailed plan to speed up within six months after a truce government spending on high there would be a genuine priority projects be prepared assurance of peace and the beginning of a full withdrawal of U. S. troops, the report gave the following estimates for a rapid demobilization:

- The U. S. armed services would decline by 800,000 persons, averaging 200,000 a quarter starting Clark Clifford, Treasury Secretary Joseph Barr, Jr., Commerce Secretary C. R. Smith, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Budget Director Charles J. Zwick and Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Anticipating that the U. S. economy will be generating

Other operating expenditures would drop by $4 billion over a slightly longer period.

Expenditures for procurement would be reduced by $8 billion over an interval of 30 months.

The report thus estimated that defense spending would be reduced $8 billion by the end of 12 months, $16 billion by the end of 18 months, and $19 billion at the end of 30 months.

The United States now is spending $80 billion for defense. In the absence of peace it was estimated that defense purchases would reach $86 billion after 18 months, and $90 billion after 30 months. But if a genuine peace is reached, the report estimated that defense purchases could be reduced to $73 billion by fiscal 1972.

Among suggested new programs the report recommended a negative income tax, which it said could make major inroads on poverty while preserving work incentives, at a cost of $15 billion to $20 billion a year. It would still need to be reinforced by housing, health, education and job training.

Another proposal was for an urban development bank, also mentioned in Johnson's final budget.

To handle the problems of readjustment which could add an estimated 600,000 to the labor force during the 18 months following a truce, the report said a readjustment operations committee should be established to take responsibility for detailed planning.

Crime Control Budget Boosted

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed Wednesday up to $900 million for law enforcement and justice programs in the fiscal year starting July 1—an increase of $200 million over the current year.

Johnson stressed in his budget message to Congress his contention that the first business of government is public order and noted that outlays aimed at crime reduction have risen each year since 1964.

Federal outlays supporting state and local government efforts to improve their law enforcement and criminal justice systems will increase by $165 million in the new fiscal year.

Johnson said the Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 is a landmark law representing the first federal program for direct major assistance to states and cities to combat lawlessness, bolster law enforcement and improve court and correctional systems.

The President also said the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act of last year authorized grants to states and local agencies in dealing with youths individually in their own communities.

For the two new programs, the president said, the budget provides $206 million dollars in 1970.

Johnson listed legislation enacted during his administration which he said provide a firm basis for an improved anti-crime effort. He said Congress should take an "urgent next step" to enact legislation requiring federal gun registration and licensing to "reduce the tragically large number of violent crimes and deaths involving firearms. He also urged a stronger antiganbling law in a move against organized crime."

City Officials Again Rebuffed By Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Officials of Missouri's larger cities have again been rebuffed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in their efforts to get increased state aid.

The officials, including Mayors A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis and Ilius Davis of Kansas City, met with Hearnes Wednesday for nearly two hours.

Hearnes again suggested the idea of authorizing cities to levy a small local sales tax to be collected by the state and returned to the cities. He said this would allow the cities to solve their own problems.

Davis said the League of Municipalities would go ahead in its campaign for legislation that would increase some state tax such as the income tax, by $60 million a year and rebate it to the cities.

Cervantes emerged from the meeting to declare that "this is an all-out fight by the cities. There's a need there whether he (Hearnes) recognizes it or not."

Other officials at the meeting were Mayors Donald Slusher of Independence, Douglas Merrifield of St. Joseph and Carl Stilwell of Springfield, St. Louis comptroller John Poelker and Mayor Cervantes' brother, The Rev. Lucius Cervantes, S. J.

Budget for Education Hiked Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid to education would continue to rise under the budget proposed yesterday by President Johnson, with major increases going to help disadvantaged children under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The President called for an increase of $406 million, to a total of $2.3 billion, in educational spending for fiscal 1970 continuing a steadily rising curve of federal aid to education over the past four years.

The budget proposes an increase of $103 million, for a total of $1,226,000, for programs to improve slum schools.

Funds for educational opportunity grants would rise from $124.6 million to $175.6 million to help 30,000 students in colleges and universities.

Industrial Mishaps Take 15 Lives

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Division of Industrial Inspection reported today 15 people were killed in Missouri industry in December, a decrease of 2 from the previous month.

George W. Fleessenhar, director, reported 8,065 accidents in December, a decrease of 633 from November. Overall cost of December accidents totaled $17,941,625, down $1,452,925 from November.

Urges Support of VanLandingham Bill

By Lynn Twitty
Realizing that the state of Missouri should pay more of the cost of financing its public schools from non-property tax sources, Senator Basye VanLandingham, Majority Floor Leader and Chairman, Interim School Finance Study Committee, introduced the first senate bill of the 75th General Assembly and relating to this problem. If approved, the bill will provide for a change in the school foundation formula for allocating state funds and would increase state's school money by approximately $35,000,000 during each of the next four years.

VanLandingham's measure is based on the belief that the state should move as early as possible toward paying at least 50% of the current operating cost of the public schools. This is partially to relieve continued pressure and increases in the property tax, now the only source which local school districts have to pay for their costs; the bill would allow for greater efficiency and economy of administration because school boards could plan for more than one year in advance and would allow increases in teachers' salaries to attract and retain qualified individuals.

The bill would also allocate some state funds on the basis of need, that is, would give more money to those schools having greater percentages of disadvantaged children and whose educational needs are greater because of this fact. It would slightly increase the amount going for equalization, i.e., the poorer districts, this increase would be from the present 16% to 20% and would go only to those school districts that levied a minimum of $2.75 on a ratio of 30% assessment of the actual value of its taxable property.

We figure roughly, that if this bill were passed, it would increase our state school funds here by about $180,000. This would allow the board of education to make substantial increases in teacher salary schedules, our greatest need. This would help us to retain good teachers and to make qualified replacements when the need arose. Any time that the taxpayer spends additional funds, they should get additional services or benefits. The most effective way to bring about better education is to provide salaries that will encourage the most competent individuals to go into the teaching profession and to pay them enough to keep them in it. Consequently, the student would receive the benefits of any additional tax funds, which is as it should be.

The VanLandingham bill merits the support of all citizens. We feel that more emphasis should be given to equalization of educational opportunities, but the measure is still a very sound one and we appreciate the Senator's concern for better schools and his tangible effort to bring it about.

Schools have rightly been criticized for not using their buildings and facilities as fully as they should in providing educational services for their communities. Some of them, though not as many as in past years, are open for only six - seven hours per day for nine months per year. This does not seem to be very wise utilization of the rather sizable amounts of people's money which is invested in them.

We do not believe that this criticism would be valid here as the Board of Education provides some sort of educational activity for the community's children and adults almost on a round-the-clock, every-month-of-the-year basis. A visit to the Senior High School on almost any night, excepting Sundays, will prove this fact. Regular classes for day students begin at 7:30 A.M., continue at least until 3:30 P.M. when other youth and adults come in for classes that last to as late as 10:30 P.M. Some adult education programs are also conducted during the regular school day off the Senior High campus.

Many of these extra educational programs are financed by federal funds, organized through our Board of Education, some are extension classes from the university or the state college and, in fact, the Board here makes every effort to provide any type of program for which there is a need and for which the money can be gotten. Regular school funds for the regular elementary and secondary, are not used for any other purpose, but other sources of financial support are used as fully as possible to provide these extra educational experiences.

While in some cases we transport school children, for safety reasons, for distances that are less than one mile, the transportation program is set up and approved for transportation only for those children who live one mile or more from the school to which they go. The state reimburses us only for those students who live one or more miles from the school which they attend.

Sometimes parents do not understand this and request transportation when they do not live one mile from the school. Because of the state regulations we, of course, can not provide transportation in such cases. Sometimes this may mean that a kindergarten child in particular family may live one mile from the kindergarten which he attends and consequently is entitled to ride the bus, while other children in the same family may attend one of the other schools which is not a mile from their home and these children can not be transported.

This may be inconvenient, but it is simply one of the facts of life, or that is, of state policy. We encourage parents to request, through the principal, teacher conferences whenever possible concerning the school progress of their children, especially if there is a need for improvement in the learning process. Written reports which we send home may give a fairly good picture of what the student is doing, but the most effective way to find out and to bring about any improvement which may be possible is to talk with the teacher who is involved.

We have had some abuse of parking privileges at the schools, both by students and even sometimes by visitors. We make every effort to keep school campuses well-kept and attractive. Unauthorized parking off the regular parking areas disturbs the grass, grounds or shrubbery and creates an unsightly appearance, in addition to raising our costs of maintaining the campuses.

Those students who violate parking regulations, will be required to turn in their driving permits and to pay for any damages created by parking violations. The cooperation of all individuals, students or visitors, is requested in order that we may maintain the school campuses in the proper manner. We received Bill Sapp's request, to be relieved of coaching duties, with considerable regret. He has made a real contribution to the educational welfare of many students through the sound athletic program which he has headed.

While we do not consider winning to be the most important outcome of a school athletic program, we still keep this as an aim and only a very few coaches in the entire nation can match his record in this respect. Coach Sapp will assume other duties in the school program.

Now, as is true in the case of any good teacher, we are faced with the problem of finding a competent and qualified replacement who will continue to give the same guidance and learning experience to our students.

We have already received a number of applicants, some good candidates, and expect that many other qualified individuals will apply. As in all teaching position vacancies, the Board will employ a qualified replacement as early as is feasible.

Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education, was a panel member this week at a meeting of Southeast Missouri State College's organization of Future Teachers of America. The subject which the panel considered was "What Schools are Looking for in a Teacher."

Investor Conference to Draw Top Market Figures

NEW YORK (AP)—In one vast hotel room later this month will be assembled representatives of at least $300 billion of assets, most of which are in securities. These are the men who make the stock market move.

Among the 2,000 money managers will be insurance men, mutual and pension fund portfolio managers, bankers, trust fund administrators, heads of nonprofit foundations. The Board is by institutions rather than individuals.

The common interest of all will be common stocks, for in these days of inflation and technological change, investors once willing to make a few per cent a year are now going after 10 to 100 per cent. In some respects it's a mad race.

Mutual funds, for example, are geared to "performance." This means they will take bigger risks and trade in-out more often in order to show their quarterly reports that they're doing better than the next fund.

This, of course, attracts a lot of attention to the winner, and soon the winner is buried in an avalanche of orders. One mutual fund this year had to suspend operations while its clerks frantically recorded new orders. It was doing too well.

This isn't the only fate of the highly successful performer. Some of the best young funds attract so much money that they can't find suitable investment opportunities. And so they, too, fall behind in the race.

Nevertheless, the highly publicized performance of the funds has put other institutions on the spot. Most of them have been forced to blow the dust off old securities and take greater risks for greater profits. Because of their activities, Gustave Levy, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, estimated recently that as much as 50 per cent of all trading on the Big Board is by institutions rather than individuals.

This steady reduction in power of the individual has created serious problems of regulation and ethics. The stock market today is hardly one of random trading, the consequences of which are now being studied by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A check at the SEC documents this growing concentration of stock ownership and stock market activity. Since 1968, private parties have been selling direct their holding of stocks: the institutions have been big buyers.

Foreign and domestic individuals still accounted for 66.5 per cent of all stock ownership up to June 30, 1968, according to the SEC, the breakdown being $462.5 billion owned by Americans and $23.2 billion by foreigners.

Most individuals, however, are investors rather than speculators or short term traders. They wouldn't care not understand how to turn over their portfolios by the week or month or year. Instead they buy for several years, even decades.

Because of more frequent trading, the following SEC estimates of stock ownership are even more significant than they appear:

Personal trusts, $78.4 billion or 10.7 per cent of all stock—common and preferred, listed on exchanges or traded over the counter.

Investment companies, or mutual funds, $54.1 billion or 7.4 per cent.

Private, noninsured pension funds, $54 billion or 7.4 per cent.

Foundations, such as Ford and Rockefeller, $15.2 billion, or 2.1 per cent.

Property and casualty insurance companies, $13.6 billion or 1.9 per cent; life insurance companies, $11.8 billion or 1.6 per cent.

College endowments, $8.4 billion or 1.1 per cent; common trust funds, $4 billion of 0.5 per cent; state and local trusts or pensions, $4.8 billion or 0.7 per cent; banks, $2 billion or 0.3 per cent.

Now if money meant freedom from problems, this conference would be dull, but instead there is at least one major problem per billion dollar of assets. This is a young and growing investment trend. So young is it, in fact, that the sponsor is a two-year-old magazine. The Institutional Investor, headed by a 27-year-old publisher, Gilbert Kaplan. It ought to be a great party.

Don't throw away your old tomato can. The engine of the first Wright Bros. plane—the Kittyhawk—was built by the brothers themselves. # ADULT EVENING COURSE OFFERING

General W. C. Westmoreland, U.S. Army chief of staff, (center) and representatives of the 52d Combat Aviation Battalion display the Outstanding Aviation Unit trophy presented to the battalion at the AAAA honors luncheon. From left are Lt. Col. Raymond G. Lehman, Lt. Col. Edward P. Lukert, General Westmoreland, Lt. Col. Paul C. Smith and Sgt. Maj. Elmer J. Winters.

Researchers at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., are developing this portable field shelter, which will protect soldiers against chemical and biological agents. Attached to the front of the shelter is a collapsible airlock for contamination-free entrance and exit.

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md. (ANF) — Military and civilian researchers are developing a portable field shelter that will protect at least 10 soldiers against chemical and biological agents.

The quonset hut-shaped shelter carries the formal name of XM51 Collective Protective Shelter System (CB Pressurized Pod). It is being developed by the Defense Development and Engineering Laboratories, Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and the American Air Filter Co., Inc., St. Louis.

Army officials at Edgewood Arsenal said the pressurized pod can be used for a command post, communications center, medical aid station or air operations center.

It has 210 square feet of interior space.

In addition, the shelter will provide a toxic-free area where combat troops who have been wearing protective masks or clothing for extended periods can eat, shave, relax or perform assigned duties.

The 2,400 pound shelter system can be unpacked, assembled and put into operation by four men in about 20 minutes.

The shelter, made of a flexible synthetic material, has dual walls of tube-like ribs, 15 inches in diameter, which are inflated with filtered air to make them rigid.

One end of the shelter has a collapsible, inflatable airlock to provide contamination-free entrance and exit.

To prevent infiltration of contaminants, filtered and conditioned air inside the shelter and airlock is kept at a higher pressure than the outside air.

The complete shelter unit consists of five major components: the shelter and airlock, a gas and particulate filtration unit, an environmental control unit for heating and cooling, a 20-horsepower standard military gasoline engine and a standard 1½-ton, two-wheel cargo trailer.

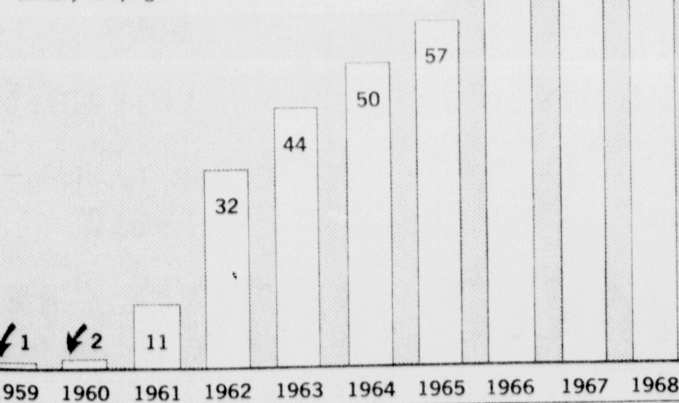

Four prototype shelters already have been tested at various Army installations in the United States. Fifteen additional units are being built for engineering and service tests.

March of Dimes Birth Defects Center Network Expands

In charting its course against birth defects, the March of Dimes now finances 103 medical centers in a program begun in 1960 to help provide quality care for victims of these afflictions in all parts of the nation. The voluntary health agency needs funds to finance more Birth Defects Centers through public contributions during its traditional January campaign.

Correctable Brain Disorder May Be Causing Child to Read Slow

Dear Ann Landers: Our middle son, age 10, is an unhappy child. This boy has always done poorly in school and we were at a loss to understand why. The teachers complain that he daydreams in class, doesn't pay attention, and misses at least half of what is going on. His grades show it.

Last week it came to my attention that the boy cannot read. I was shocked. How he managed to fool everyone is beyond me. His English teacher suggested that he might have dyslexia, which she described as a disorder of the brain that can be corrected. Do you know anything about this? Does this mean my child is retarded? Can you help me? — NEWSDAY READER

Dear Reader: Children who have dyslexia are not retarded. In fact, they have normal or above average intelligence. No one is certain what causes this lag in visual and auditory development, but the problem is often discovered because the child has trouble reading. The experts agree dyslexia tends to run in families and could be triggered by a difficult birth or a psychological problem early in life.

I suggest you write to the Executive Director, The Secretary's (H.E.W.) National Advisory Committee on Dyslexia & Related Reading Disorders, Room 8A34C, N.I.H. Building 31, Bethesda, Maryland 20014. I recommend this organization with complete confidence because I know something about it.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been dating this fellow for almost a year. He is really groovy and I think he's the most, so please don't tell me to cut the connection. I couldn't do it.

The only thing wrong with Jake is he's a little bit cheap. Whenever we go with another couple, he manages to be away from the table when the check comes, or he is so slow to find his pocket that the other guy gets it.

Lately we've been doubling with my best friend a lot. Yesterday she told me her steady refuses to double with us any more because Jake is such a sponge. I am so embarrassed I could take the gas pipe. How do I tell him? — BOISE BLUES

Dear Boise: In plain English, and at once, unless he understands another language better.

Dear Ann Landers: We are up to our necks in debt. Bruce is a good person but he loves to gamble and he lies to me constantly. He'll bet on whether or not Thanksgiving falls on a Thursday. Bruce swears he paid the rent and the utility bills and then I get three dunning letters and somebody shows up in person. Last month the power company turned off the gas and electricity.

Twice last year Bruce went to loan companies to keep from getting his wages garnished. My father finally lent us $500 because we were about to lose our car and furniture.

Gambling is as bad a sickness as alcoholism. Please, Ann, tell me what to do. I'm ready to pack and clear out. — NO DOOR

Dear No: Have you ever heard of Gamblers Anonymous? This organization is patterned after A.A. and has helped a great many people. The National Headquarters address is: P.O. Box 17173, Los Angeles, California, or 2847 1/2 Pico Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. Write for literature and good luck to you, honey.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sobell Plans To Catch up On Living

NEW YORK (AP)—Morton Sobell, released from prison Tuesday after serving 17 years for conspiring to sell atomic secrets to the Soviet Union, has returned home and says he has "a lot of living to do."

Sobell, 52, stepped out of the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., Tuesday afternoon, hours after the U.S. Court of Appeals in Manhattan ordered him freed. He took a bus to New York City to rejoin his family.

"I have a lot of living to do and I'm going back to school," Sobell said as he arrived, clad in what prison officials call "dress-out clothing" a gray suit, white shirt and tie.

Sobell, who was sentenced in 1951 to 30 years in jail, avoided newsmen waiting at the bus station and left for an undisclosed location.

Meeting Sobell at the bus station were his wife Helen, 51; their son Mark, 19; their daughter, Mrs. Sydney Clemens, 29; and Sobell's mother Rose, 74.

Mrs. Sobell said she had heard of her husband's imminent release on the radio and called to tell him. She said he did not know until her phone call. She said her husband wanted to study engineering.

Mark, a computer programmer with shoulder-length hair, said, when told of the release, "It's about time they let him go because he is innocent."

Sobell, a radar expert, was convicted along with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed in June 1953. The Rosenbergs were convicted of committing wartime espionage as well as conspiracy.

Although sentenced to the maximum term, Sobell had been due for release Aug. 24 because of good behavior. The appeals unit ruled he should be credited with 7½ months he spent in jail for inability to post $100,000 bail prior to sentencing in 1951 and thus enabled the earlier release.

Specifically, Sobell was convicted of conspiring to commit espionage by transmitting to the Soviet Union documents, writings, sketches, notes and information related to national defense.

He was accused of helping the Rosenbergs recruit others into a spy ring led by Klaus Fuchs, a British scientist, and Harry Gold, a Philadelphia biochemist, during World War II.

More than a dozen attempts were made to obtain freedom for Sobell. Mrs. Sobell estimated they cost more than $1 million.

The Committee to Secure Justice for Morton Sobell in New York City claimed he was a victim of a frameup.

Looking Back

Farmers Supply Co. Quits Business

50 years ago
January 16, 1919

James Kevill, who has been in training at Camp McArthur, Waco, Tex., for the past few months, is expected home the last of this week or the first of next. He will have received his discharge when he arrives, and will immediately resume his former connection with the Sikes-McMullin Grain Co.

Frank Ledbetter of Farmington arrived in Sikeston Sunday to accept a position with the Herald, as reporter and bookkeeper. Mr. Ledbetter has just recently received his discharge from the Navy.

Mrs. A.A. Mayfield was called to Jackson Monday by the grave illness of her mother who had suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Dr. Mayfield accompanied Mrs. Mayfield to Jackson, returning that evening.

James MacSanders, age 52 years, 9 months and 17 days, died at his home on Delmar street, December 26, of pneumonia, following a short illness with influenza.

Frank Beasley, 51, janitor at the offices of the Scott County Milling Co., for the past two years, received a slight scalp wound at the hands of two assailants last Monday evening.

The Farmers Supply Co., which quit business. A closing out of stock and fixtures will begin Tuesday morning and will continue until everything is sold.

said A. Ray Smith, manager and stockholder. Wednesday. The action is voluntary. Old settlers will remember when Sikeston's Big Store covered an entire city block and more. The business was founded about 1900 by C.D. Matthews, sr., with a capital stock of $20,000. Up to 1913 when the business was sold out to various firms by departments, Charles Matthews was general manager and Ned Matthews operated the grocery department. The lumber and coal departments were sold in 1913 to the E.C. Robinson Lumber Co., White and Dorroh of Memphis, Tenn., bought the hardware and grocery interests, the machinery and implement stock, located where Sensenbath Brothers' garage now stands, was purchased by W.A. White and resold to Russell Brothers. At that time, A. Ray Smith, then an employee for the Matthews Brothers, organized a company and bought out the men's and women's furnishings and dry goods departments, and has operated the store since then.

The oldest citizen of Sikeston is dead. John Kaiser, farmer, shoemaker and merchant, died at his home, 110 North street Wednesday morning at the age of 90 years, 11 months and 11 days.

January 16, 1939

The Bowling Palace is open for its last week in Sikeston and all bowling fans are notified in order that they may get in as much rolling as possible before it is closed. The alleys will be moved the first of next week to Paducah, Ky., according to Ernest Harper, owner. The building is being vacated so the Kirk McCoy Hardware Co., can be moved from across the street into the location on February 1. The Sterling Store will occupy the hardware site and also the vacant section adjoining it, making way for the new J.C. Penney Co., store to be located on the corner of Front and New Madrid.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the Morley Baptist Church for Charles Alpheus Stallings, postmaster at Morley and prominent retired farmer, who died at the home there Sunday afternoon. Mr. Stallings, 56 years old, had been in failing health for two years and was critically ill the past six weeks.

Arden Ellise, proprietor of the Ellise Funeral Home, in the next few days will open a joint funeral home at Lilbourn, where he is installing equipment for a chapel, office, display room and morgue.

Harry E. Dudley, head weight officer of the State Highway Department here, has been made division safety engineer for the newly created Safety Bureau of Division 10.

The following pupils of Mrs. O.T. Elder will play on January 21 at the Tanner Street Church of God: Francis Potashnick, Jerriynn DeKrick, Margaret Potashnick, Sandra Higgins, Peggy Alcorn, Bonnie Alcorn, Penney Wilson, Ann Elizabeth Sisson, Patricia Alcorn, John Thomas Reuber, Joe Bill Sisson, Kathryn Kirby, Jane Pitman, Judy Alexander, Evelyn Potashnick, and Margaret Scott.

The final recital will be on the 24th with the following participating: Betty Sue Keasler, Mary Jane Faris, Mary Elizabeth Stevenson, Lillian Ancell, Eddie McAmis, Bob Scott, Sue Critchlow, Peggy Earle Knapp, Barbara Boyce, Leona F. Lewis, Sandra Beck, Carolyn Jackson, Helen Janet Lewis, Carolyn Wilkinson, Fontaine Day, Jim Keasler, Mary Humes, Joan Hill and Frances Wallace.

Carolyn Jane Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Robertson, celebrated her third birthday Saturday afternoon with a party at her home.

Mrs. Elvora Jane Parker, 77 years old, a lifelong resident of the Morehouse community, died of a heart ailment Friday night at the Delta Community Hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Aral Reynolds, 38, Sikeston, who died at her home Wednesday were held at the Essex Baptist Church Friday with the Rev. Marion James officiating.

The Bulldogs from Sikeston High nailed down victory number nine of the season Friday night, a 50 to 34 triumph at the expense of the Jackson Indians.

A quartet of boxers from Sikeston High will open their ring campaigns tonight as the 1949 Golden Gloves tournament gets underway at the Lilbourn High gym. Most experienced of the four is Jerry Jones, who last year wound up as co-champion in the middleweight division of the Lilbourn tourney. Others representing Sikeston are: Billy Drake and Buddy Seabaugh both in the 135 pound class, and Jimmy Allen, who will be scrapping in the middleweight division with Jones.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hornback, 29, 407 West Gladys, who died at the Delta Community Hospital Sunday morning were held this afternoon at the home.

Today In U.S. History

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1969. There are 349 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1920, the 18th Amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors, went into effect, giving birth to the "era of the speakeasy and bathtub gin."
On this date — In 1883 the Pendleton Act went into effect, providing for the U. S. Civil Service Commission.
In 1920 a new motion picture, called The Kid, was released for public distribution. It starred Charlie Chaplin and little boy, soon to become the darling of the nation, Jackie Coogan.
In 1942, screen actress Carole Lombard and 21 other passengers were killed in the crash of a commercial airliner near Las Vegas, Nev.
In 1952, Soviet Russia ordered all foreign diplomats in Moscow to limit their movements to within 25 miles of the city; 22 cities of Russian Siberia were declared out of bounds for all foreigners.
In 1967, President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent to Congress a record peacetime budget, estimating federal expenditures by fiscal 1967-68 at $71.8 billion, but foreseeing a budget surplus of $1.8 billion. In 1965, Willie Mays, San Francisco Giants centerfielder, signed his 1965 contract for $106,000, thus maintaining his status as baseball's highest paid player.

Mo. Utilities
Wants Increase
In Cape Rates

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Missouri Utilities Co. of Cape Girardeau announced Wednesday it is seeking gas and water rate increases that will boost its annual revenue by an estimated $369,000.

The utility asked for a $135,000 gas rate increase in and around the cities of Cape Girardeau, Dexter, Scott City, Bloomfield, Ilmo, Essex and Kelso. The average boost would be about 85 cents a month.

It requested a rate increase of almost $79,000 for its water distribution system in Cape Girardeau. The average monthly boost would be 75 cents.

The new agreement stands with two other major landmarks in the Vietnam War negotiations. The first, last spring, was the Washington-Hanoi accord on Paris as a meeting place after a month of argument about various other cities. The second milestone was the Washington-Hanoi agreement at the end of October ending U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, and including South Vietnam and the NLF in the new phase of negotiations.

South Vietnam balked at that agreement because of the apparent status it gave to the NLF. Throughout the weeks since, the U.S. has been involved in trying to work out a formula for the talks which would satisfy the communists and South Vietnam.

Unlike the U.S. program, which has Saturn 5 rockets powerful enough to propel men moonward with a single launch, the Soviets will require perhaps five or six difference launches to assemble in earth orbit the rockets, spacecraft and fuel supplies needed for a lunar landing, knowledgeable observers believe.

In addition, recent remarks by cosmonauts and Soviet officials after the Soyuz 3 flight by Col Georgy Beregovoy last October indicate Soyuz craft cannot take heat and pressure builds up a 25,000-mile-an-hour re-entry encountered by spaceships returning to earth from the vicinity of the moon.

Soyuz craft can only re-enter at earth orbital speeds of 17,500 miles an hour, the Soviets indicated.

If so, this means a flight to the moon using Soyuz would require firing from the lunar surface into earth orbit first, then re-entering the atmosphere—an extremely difficult sequence which Russia has not yet proven it can accomplish.

WELZA SWINGER

Schools, Clubs To See Future Uses of Phones

Dave Hargis, science demonstrator for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, will be in Sikeston next week to show "The Incredible Machine," a preview of telephone services of the future.

Sikeston organizations that will see the program are the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Area schools to see the program are Kelly High School, Matthews High School and Sikeston Senior High.

The program centers around the vast telephone switching network which is basically a huge computer that callers control when dialing telephone numbers.

Hargis will show some of the conveniences which research and development are making possible with the telephone switching system. The program

Soviet Spacemen Transfer Ships

MOSCOW (AP) - Two Soviet cosmonauts transferred from one orbiting spaceship to another today, scoring a dramatic first for the Soviet space program.

The two space ships, Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, had linked up in orbit shortly before cosmonauts Yevgeny Khrunov and Alexei Yeliseyev made the transfer.

The official news agency Tass said they moved from Soyuz 5 to join Vladimir Shatalov in Soyuz 4, leaving Boris Volynov alone in Soyuz 5.

Tass said the two space ships separated after being locked together for 4 hours, 35 minutes. There was no immediate word on the remainder of the flight program.

Radio Moscow said the two cosmonauts were outside the linked-up ships "about an hour."

Khrunov and Yeliseyev donned space suits just before the maneuver. Radio Moscow said the suits were equipped with a new life-support system.

"Thus Shatalov's two-day solitude in orbit was over," Tass said.

Khrunov exited from Soyuz 5 and climbed aboard the companion ship above the territory of South America. Yeliseyev made his move over the Soviet Union.

"The condition of all cosmonauts is good," Radio Moscow said.

Soyuz 4 hurtled into orbit Tuesday and Soyuz 5 followed a day later.

Tass described the space suits as "a new autonomous regeneration-type life-sustaining system." This appeared to mean that the cosmonaut could survive without the cable connected to the oxygen supply of the space ship.

The one-hour duration of the space walk was calculated from the moment the hatch of Soyuz 5 was opened to the time the hatch of Soyuz 4 was shut.

A Tass editor said that Khrunov and Yeliseyev passed into the working compartment of Soyuz 5, sealed it off from the crew quarters where Volynov was sitting, then opened the hatch.

Meanwhile, the editor said, Shatalov's working compartment hatch was opened as he remained isolated in his crew quarters.

After the transfer was completed, both hatches were closed and the working compartments were pressurized again.

In the Soyuz mission, the Soviet Union performed the world's first docking maneuver of two manned space ships. It also marked the Soviet Union's first manned docking of any kind.

Tass referred to the linkup as "the world's first experimental space station." It was not immediately clear whether the crew capsules of the ships would be detached for re-entry, leaving the working quarters in orbit. The Soyuz design is known to include this capability.

After the linkup earlier today a Moscow radio announcer declared the docking "guarantees the fulfillment of a great complex of experiments."

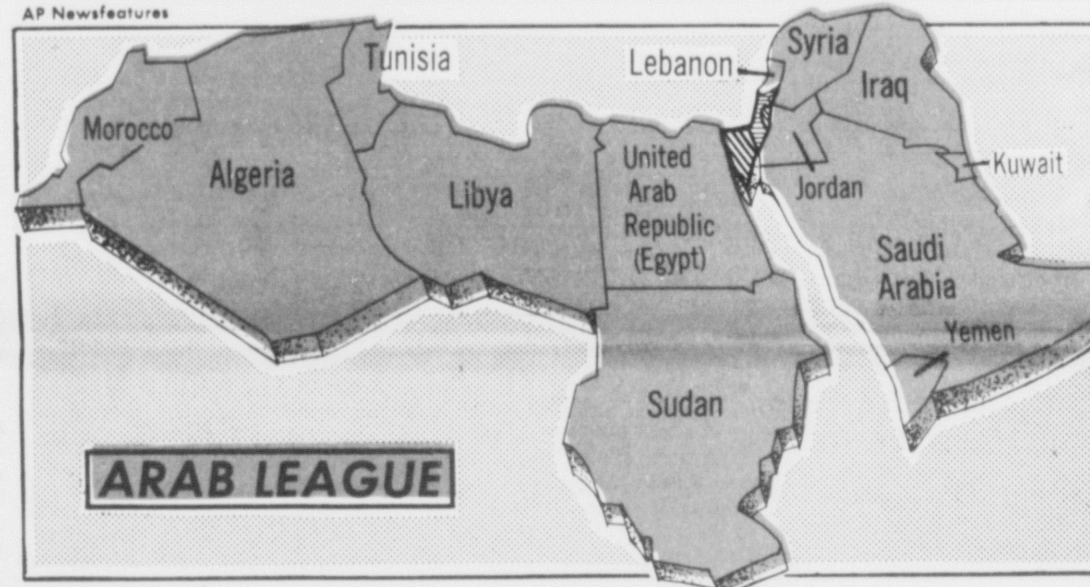

There also was no confirmation in Moscow that the Soviet Union might have launched a third spaceship this morning. The Bochum observatory in West Germany reported intercepting radio signals indicating a new launching.

Cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov, hurled into space two days ago aboard Soyuz 4, took over manual controls to guide his ship into Soyuz 5 after ground controls had brought them close together in orbit.

Tass said, Soyuz 5, with three men aboard, was launched Wednesday.

The two ships docked over the territory of the Soviet Union, Tass said, after making an approach to within 100 yards, controlled by radio signals from the ground.

"After the docking, there was a mutual mechanical coupling of the ships," Tass went on, "and they were rigidly tightened up and their electrical circuits were connected."

Middle East Ripe for War

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) - The tenuous Middle East peace structure appears near collapse again, this time as a result of mounting Arab commando raids and Israeli reprisals.

Despite a year of effort by U. N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring, the situation has deteriorated rapidly to the point where many are expressing fear of a new all-out conflict.

This is reflected not only as statements from Arab and Israeli leaders, but in the efforts of the four big powers to seek an urgent peace settlement.

Some U. N. diplomats feel that Jarring's peace mission already is doomed and that nothing short of a big power pressure can save the situation at this stage.

Israel has taken a firm stand against any attempt of the Big Four to impose a settlement, but both the United States and the Soviet Union have a tremendous influence in the area and any agreement by them would be bound to carry weight.

One of the most recent causes for concern was the involvement of Lebanon in the new wave of clashes. Lebanon remained outside the lightning war of June 1967 and has maintained a moderate policy in comparison with other Arab countries.

The Palestine liberation forces, however, are using Lebanese territory as a base just as they use Jordanian, Egyptian, Syrian and other Arab countries.

It is this which led to the Israeli commando attack on the Beirut airport Dec. 28 and the subsequent tension between Israel and Lebanon.

Nearly all the major incidents in the past year have involved the so-called Arab liberation forces and Israeli military reaction to their raids into Israel.

The Arabs contend that the 1.3 million Arab refugees from Palestine have a legitimate right to seek the "liberation" of their former homeland and that these groups are patriots who deserve the help of other Arabs.

The result is a large-scale training program with bases in several Arab countries. One of the most widely publicized groups is Al Fatah, but the group which admitted responsibility for attacking an Israeli airliner at the Athens airport was the Popular Front of the Liberation of Palestine.

Israel has taken the position that the countries where these groups are based are responsible for their deeds just as they would be for the deeds of their own military forces.

The U. N. Security Council has appealed without success to all parties to avoid violence, but has skirted the question of responsibility for the commando groups.

Israel was censured twice and condemned three times by the Security Council in 1966. Three of these cases involved reprisal raids. Israel insists that the only way to stop the guerrilla activities is by the use of Israeli force and it has bluntly told the United Nations it will continue to strike back as long as the Arab attacks occur.

Russia Has More to Do

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - By successfully linking two manned spaceships and transferring two crewmen, the Soviet Union has demonstrated it can assemble space stations for operations in earth orbit. But if they plan to beat Americans to a moon landing, the Russians will have to do much more.

Technical details of exactly how Russia plans to land cosmonauts on the lunar surface and return them to earth remain cloaked in secrecy. But knowledgeable western observers who specialize in assessing the Soviet space program generally believe cosmonauts don't have a chance of making it before 1970.

The United States, meanwhile, is expected to place its Apollo 11 astronauts on the lunar surface in mid-July of this year.

Morehouse To Elect Officials

MOREHOUSE - Election of city officials will be held April 1 here.

Deadline for candidates to file for office is March 12. Offices to be filled are mayor, city marshal, police judge, collector and one alderman from each ward.

Polling places are city hall, ward one, and Kiwanis Club building, ward two.

Manual J. Taylor, city collector, has been the only person to date to file for election. He started serving as collector in Aug., 1966, and was elected for a two-year term in 1967.

Notices of the election have been placed at various prominent places throughout the city.

Mayor I.B. McNew has indicated he will not seek re-election. City Marshall is Charley Neal. It isn't known if he intends to seek re-election or not.

Peace Talk Seating Stalemate Broken

PARIS (AP) - The longstalled Vietnam peace talks are to begin Saturday, eight months after the preliminary discussions got under way.

With the consent of their allies, the United States and North Vietnam announced today a breakthrough in the filibuster about the shape of the table the negotiators will use. The American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and National Liberation Front delegations will sit around an unmarked round table at the International Conference Center.

W. Averell Harriman, the U.S. ambassador who is retiring from the talks this weekend, said the solution represented no victory for any side.

"It was not suggested by any one person," he said. "It was not a compromise, but just a decision that all could agree to, and satisfactory to all the participants of the conference."

Harriman hailed the agreement as an important step on the road to peace, saying it is possible that the talks may get fairly quickly to substantive matters, perhaps by the time his successor, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrives in a week or 10 days.

In Saigon, Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh insisted the talks will be two-sided—the United States and Saigon vs. Hanoi and the Viet Cong's front.

"This is the nearest we could get to the two sides we have been fighting for," Thanh said. "It looks like a victory if you go back to the original North Vietnamese demand for a four-sided conference."

Two rectangular tables for secretaries will flank the round table at a distance of about 18 inches, and Thanh suggested these are sufficient to satisfy Saigon's demand for two-sided talks since they indicate a division between the allied and Hanoi-Viet Cong negotiators.

A U.S. spokesman refused to characterize the agreement in National Liberation Front any way, or to say whether it represented a concession by the U. S. Saigon side, which had been insistent all along on a marked table which would clearly show that the peace conference was two-sided.

Eventually the agreement was reached with the understanding that the two sides could view the conference in any way they chose, and the Americans and South Vietnamese still stress their view that it will be two-sided.

The sudden and unexpected breakthrough makes it possible for peace conference machinery to be in motion two days before the expiration of President Johnson's term of office.

But for some time it is expected the enlarged conference will deal with procedural matters before it finally gets down to talking about how to achieve peace in Vietnam.

Obviously, the two-side, four-side disagreement continues but has been shunted aside by common consent.

The North Vietnamese spokesman characterized the coming meeting as four-sided. The Saigon spokesman stressed two sides.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the North Vietnamese spokesman, said the conference would be made up of four delegations "to reflect the idea that they are equal." South Vietnam has stubbornly resisted the idea that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front should have a status of equality with the Saigon government.

The first meeting, opening at 10:30 a.m. — 4:30 a.m., EST — Saturday will thus be at a round table with four members of the delegation present, a total of 16, plus secretaries as needed.

The deputy heads of the delegations will be present, since there are still procedural matters to be discussed. Thus, Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance will represent the United States, Col. Ha Van Lau the North Vietnamese, Nguyen Phong Phong, Saigon's No. 2 man, as the speaker, followed by Vance.

Vance and Lau reached the agreement after two last-minute meetings, one of an hour and a half Wednesday another of half hour this morning.

The shape of the table and speaking arrangements had been at the core of the wrangle which had held up the enlarged talks ever since President Johnson announced the end of the bombing of North Vietnam Oct. 31 and opened the way for a new phase of the conference.

The North Vietnamese spokesman, as if suggesting that the solution was a victory for his side, told newsmen Hanoi had proposed a round table as long ago as Dec. 12, and "the United States and the Saigon administration must bear the entire responsibility for the fact that it has taken to Jan. 15 for the conference to meet."

South Vietnam's spokesman insisted that the accord showed his governments good will.

There will be no flags or emblems in the conference room.

The first session, at least, will be held in private. The North Vietnamese said they wanted the meeting to be public but that the United States objected. The Americans said future meetings might be open to the press.

The agreement appears to have compromised the two-side, four-side argument by leaving the table unmarked, but by arranging at the same time a speaking order which suggested two sides.

On the first day the Saigon-American side will speak first, and at the next meeting, the Hanoi-NLF side will speak first. For the Saturday meeting the allied side has designated Phong, Saigon's No. 2 man, as the speaker, followed by Vance.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief of the U.S. delegation, does not plan to remain in Paris, despite the agreement.

When the delegates gather in the international conference center, they will see one large round table and two small rectangular tables on opposite sides, each about 18 inches from the big table. The seating is up to the delegations.

Johnson Draws 3 Lessons From Talk Breakthrough

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson hailed today the Paris agreement on the shape of a Vietnam conference table and said that now "new talks on the substance of peace in Southeast Asia can open."

Speaking at an unrelated ceremony in the White House cabinet room, Johnson said that three lessons are to be learned from America's experience since he announced a cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam and renounced another run for the presidency last March 31st.

"First," he said, "we must be clear and firm pursuing with our allies the limited but vital objectives we seek in Southeast Asia."

"Second, we must be patient and face the hard fact that fighting is likely to continue as the negotiations are carried forward."

"Third, we should be confident that an honorable peace is possible if we here at home remain steady."

The President, obviously delighted that the way was opened for actual peace negotiations by a decision to seat the rival delegations at a round table in Paris, went on to say that there have been three crises since the preliminary discussions opened in the French capital nine months ago. He said these were on a place for the talks, on terms for the bombing cessation, and on procedures for the new talks.

"In each case," the chief executive said, "patience, firmness and fair-mindedness achieved a satisfactory result."

The agreement reached in Paris today, according to informants here, preserves the U.S.-South Vietnamese position of a two-sided conference but allows the North Vietnamese and National Liberation Front to claim that the meeting is a four-power conference.

The provisions of the deal are:

1. The new negotiating sessions will be held at a round table but the round table will be flanked by two rectangular tables at opposite points and about 18 inches away from the round table.

In the U.S.-South Vietnamese view, these rectangular tables establish a dividing line across the round table, with the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations sitting on one side and the North Vietnamese and NLF representatives on the other.

2. There are to be no flags or name plates in the conference hall, a provision which avoids special identification of the NLF as if its delegation represented a government instead of a revolutionary force inside South Vietnam.

3. The speaking arrangements will be that each delegation on one side speaks in order and then each delegation on the other.

Diplomats refer to this as the "AA, BB" formula. This means that if the United States speaks first, South Vietnam speaks second and then the two representatives on the other side speak.

Had the agreement not been reached with the North Vietnamese in Paris today the whole problem of opening the new round of talks would have gone over to the Nixon administration. Now the new President will be in position to move forward on the substance of the talks—such issues as arrangements for troop withdrawal and the future of South Vietnam.

The use of a round table and nearby rectangular tables recalled a similar agreement made at the outset of Big Four talks on Germany at Geneva in 1959. Representatives of West Germany and communist East Germany were invited to attend but not as full participants along with the U.S., Britain, Russia and France.

The main table agreed upon after days of haggling was a See No. 2, Page 10

Heckemeyer Lands Agriculture Post

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - House Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, today released the membership of 37 House committees, including a new economics committee to pass on any bills that involve major expenditures.

The Senate has a similar watchdog committee.

Rep. Norbert Jasper, R-Washington, will be chairman of that important new house committee. Vice chairman will be Rep. Tom Ryan, D-Jackson County.

The committee list was made up before the unexpected death of Rep. Frank Mazzuca, D-Kansas City, early Tuesday and it still shows him as chairman once again of the Municipal Corporations Committee dealing with big city problems.

A replacement will have to be named. Vice Chairman is William R. Royster, D-Kansas City.

It had been known earlier that Rep. E. J. Cantrell, D-Overland, would once more be chairman of the powerful Appropriations Committee. His vice chairman will be Marvin Proffer, D-Jackson.

A number of committees will be directed by the same chairmen as last session.

Chairman and vice chairmen of other major committees:

Agriculture—W. D. Hibler, D-Brunswick and Tony Heckemeyer, R-Sikeston.

Atomic Energy and Industrial Development—Jay Russell, D-Florissant, and Lloyd J. Baker, D-Moberly.

Constitutional amendments—Robert Devoy, D-Brookfield, and John A. Grellner, D-Richmond Heights.

Education—James I. Spainhower, D-Marshall, and Charles S. Broomfield, D-Kansas City.

Elections—Curt Davidson, D-Clinton, and Eugene Mazzuca, D-St. Louis.

$91 Taken From Hart's

Scott County Sheriff John Dennis reported someone stole $91.10 from the cash register at Hart's Standard Service Station on Highway 62 east in Miner about 2 a.m. today.

He said two suspects are being sought.

Ray Hart, station owner, said a man entered the station through a back door while attendant Donald Hoots, 24, was making a sale outside.

Hoots saw the man inside the building and chased him into a nearby field and lost him there. The register was pried open.

News Briefs

Nixon Relaxes in Private

KEY BISCAIYNE, Fla. (AP) - President-elect Nixon worked and relaxed in privacy and public silence today, as he has since coming to his Florida hideaway two days ago.

Press aide Bruce Whelihan said Nixon was at work on his inaugural address, with the assistance of two newly arrived staff members, Miss Rose Mary Woods, his personal secretary, and Raymond K. Price, a special assistant and speechwriter, arrived Wednesday.

Nixon had no comment on President Johnson's budget, sent to Congress Wednesday, and Whelihan said there would be none. The President-elect and the man he will succeed Monday talked on the telephone for about 40 minutes Tuesday night. Johnson placed the call to Nixon. The substance of their conversation was not disclosed.

Nixon is expected to remain in Key Biscayne until late Friday, spend a day in New York, then head for Washington on Sunday.

Charleston Votes to Pay

CHARLESTON-The city council agreed Tuesday night to pay one-half of the last six months rent of OEO Neighborhood Analysis office in Charleston.

The Chamber of Commerce pays the other part.

Cost to the city is $300.

Councilmen also voted to pave Plant Road, Iron Banks Road, Naomi street, High Street, Sherman street and Thorn street in 1969.

Accident Causes Minor Damage

Minor damage was reported in an auto accident this morning in front of the Mid-Towner Restaurant on East Malone.

Drivers of the cars were Ronald C. Untereiner, Cape Girardeau, and Richie Wrather, Canalou. No one was injured.

Four SEMO Towns Named

Sikeston has been designated one of four growth centers in the Bootheel Economic Development District.

Other cities approved yesterday by the Economic Development Administration in Washington, D.C. were: Dexter, Bloomfield and New Madrid.

Growth center designation means that future grants will have an additional 10 per cent federal funds for projects in the four cities.

Pat Lea, Sikeston, district chairman, said today this designation was made within nine-months after the council was formed, the shortest period of time a region has ever received approval.

Lea said projects previously approved for the six-county region are not eligible for the 10 per cent bonus.

Counties in the district are New Madrid, Dunklin, Mississippi, Scott, Pemiscot and Stoddard.

Announcement of approval was made by Missouri Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton, and Congressman Bill Burlison.

Women Waive Hearings In Separate Murder Cases

CHARLESTON- Two Mississippi county women charged with first degree murders have waived preliminary hearings and have been bound over to circuit court for trials.

This morning, Willie Mae Craig, 50, who is charged with murdering George McWherter, 59, Jan. 4, appeared in magistrate court to waive her hearing.

McWherter was stabbed to death in front of a Wyatt cafe. Inness Oliver, 607 Pecan St., who is charged with the Dec. 26 slaying of Nathaniel Gross, Wyatt, last week appeared and waived her hearing.

Gross was killed at Miss Oliver's home with a .22 caliber rifle.

Both women are being held over to circuit court for trials. Trial dates have not been set.

Thursday, January 16, 1969, You will see yourself on T.V. tonight. You will be sober.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
NOTED AND PASSED

On The Supreme Court: Recent rulings by the Supreme Court "make the trial of a felony twice as long and twice as difficult." These are the words of the ranking Jurist in the State of New York, Justice Saul S. Streit.

"We spend more time deciding whether the new legalisms propounded by the United States Supreme Court in these decisions have been complied with than we do to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendant."

The Green Berets Victory: When the John Wayne film based on the Green Berets in Vietnam was released, that critics panned it unmercifully. Hollywood and Broadway circles predicted it would be a financial disaster. To date it has earned almost $11 million, and ranks as one of the most successful movies in the last 5 years.

Says John Wayne, whose brand of patriotism is the target for the gliberal reviewers: "The ridiculously one-sided criticism of the picture only made people more conscious of it and they are proving that the reviews were not very effective."

Most critics reviewed the war and not the picture...

One Green Beret's Escape: Major James N. Rowe described his escape after 5 years as a prisoner with this understatement: "The Vietcong were in one area and I got one guard to separate with me. At that one point the guard became unconscious and I got to the chopper."

Student Strike: Japan's giant Tokyo University has suffered a student strike of 6 months' duration and is contemplating closing entirely for one year. Said Tokyo President Ichiro Kato: "I regretfully see no prospect that we can hold entrance examinations for next year. We recognize the grave impact this will have on our society... At the same time, it would be even more irresponsible to admit new applicants to a university where no education can be conducted."

A Drawing Rights Bracelet: "One need not carry cynicism as far as those who say that it will be many a long day before a wife will greet with delight the husband who brings her a necklace or a bracelet made of Special Drawing Rights. All the same, this is a vivid way of pointing out how misleading it is to represent these Special Drawing Rights - of paper gold - as they are sometimes called - as a kind of substitute for monetary gold." - Dr. Samuel Schweizer, Chairman of the Board, Swiss Bank Corporation.

One of the most amusing sights greeting visitors to Central Park several years ago was former first lady Jacqueline Kennedy spinning around the park's paths on her bicycle, carrying John - John in a passenger seat. Trailing the twosome at a distance of 10 feet, on foot, was the sweating secret service man.

The most tiresome man is the man who thinks he is "a good talker." He has a lot of set phrases which really mean nothing at all. Such a man is really another idle man.

THE DEMOCRATS REBUILT

The Democrats already are looking toward 1972. Party revitalization and reform will be stressed at the first post-election meeting of the Democratic National Convention on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at Washington's Mayflower Hotel, which is traditionally Democrat Country.

National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien on Nov. 23 announced the appointment of "two groups which will deal with organizational matters leading toward the 1972 Democratic Convention." These were a rules commission and a special commission directed to help state Democrats to meet their responsibilities in selecting convention delegates. The 1968 convention had approved a resolution which specifically banned use of the unit rule at all levels of delegate selection for 1972.

One of the items on Tuesday's agenda will be selection of an executive committee composed of committeemen and women selected from and by the four DNC regional groupings. Another will be the future of O'Brien himself. He says he wants to go back to private business. However, he is under pressure from a number of party leaders to stay as chairman. Humbert H. Humphrey intends to help choose a successor if O'Brien does step down.

Another problem is the status of Earl Goodwin, national committeeman from Alabama, and others who cut the Humphrey-Muskie ticket in November. Goodwin is unworried. He told the Birmingham News, Doex, 12: "All a committeeman could do in the next four years would be to try to help raise funds to get the party out of debt."

We often wonder

- a) Why drivers delay until dark to switch on their lights;
- b) Why drivers pass at over - the - speed - limit, then cut back in front of the car so quickly;
- c) Why drivers pass, or cut in and out, to get ahead of just one car at a traffic light;
- d) Why drivers knowingly exceed the speed limit, constantly look for the patrol car to gain five miles in 60 minutes?

Governor Hearnes seems to be catching hell from the Metropolitan papers because he did not tell the Legislature what to do about raising taxes in his budget message.

We commend the Governor for his good sense. Why give the mavericks in the legislators fuel to say that the Governors office will not run the legislature during his second term.

The constitution prohibits the state from deficit financing so all the Governor could do was to present a budget that would call for expenditures of only the foreseeable money.

Now lets see how the House and Senate Leadership will do the job they say they will not let the Governor do.

PENSION FUNDS HIGH

Cash and securities held in the major statelocal government retirement systems reached a new high of $39.3 billion in June 1967, up $4 billion (11 per cent) from the year before, according to Tax Foundation Inc.

The average taxpayer does not realize that (in addition to preparing for his own retirement) he is paying taxes for the retirement benefits of hundreds of thousands of workers in the 2,165 state-local government pension systems in the U. S. today.

In 1967, for example, the nation's taxpayers paid about 46 per cent of the $6 billion total -- while the workers contributed 30 per cent. Earnings on investments accounted for the balance.

While we have no axe to grind over state-local government workers benefiting from a pension, certainly this is another reason why these same workers should not be allowed to strike and stop serving the public who provide same.

Trial & Error. In Pittsburgh, Daniel A. Marra admitted in court that he used to beat his wife, but gave it up "when I found out it was not doing any good."

Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D-La.)

"I have always been in favor of employees, including Federal employees, having the right to choose whether or not they wish to belong to a union."

Undisputed Man of the Year is District Judge Carmon Harris of Oklahoma City who imposed a lashing on the bare back of a youth, in lieu of a prison term.

"I have tried deferred sentences and suspended sentences but this does not seem to do any good," the judge told the prisoner. "Maybe a little oldtime corporal punishment will make you realize that when you break the law you must pay the penalty."

What with high court pampering of convicted criminals in extreme deference to the Bill of Rights, and the uncertainty of punishment, some discreet flogging on the trail court level might be an answer.

Conditions warrant the recommendation that we re-establish the public whipping post.

More power to Judge Harris and others of his estimable persuasion.

Every gossip knows who the other gossips are.

A man never looks like he is attending to business if a dog is following him.

THOSE TAX LOOPHOLES

While some politicians have been so busy shouting about "tax loopholes," the so-called devices by which taxpayers may escape their fair share of taxes, little attention has been paid to the fact that there is another kind of tax loophole -- wasteful and excessive spending by government. Through this loophole tax funds drain across the countryside to perpetuate the jobs of bureaucrats and office holders.

Take just one instance -- the expanding federal grants-in-aid programs -- and we can name others.

There are 400 separate congressional authorizations for grants-in-aid machinery, administered by 18 federal departments and agencies. Grants-in-aid expenditures have risen from $8 billion in 1963 to $20.3 billion for the current fiscal year. And from 1963 through fiscal 1968, a total of $96.5 billion was distributed to states and localities.

The last Congress did pass a measure to review periodically grants-in-aid programs. It is time the private citizens remembered that the tax-loophole coin has two sides.

Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.)

"I would not support legislation for a closed shop in government service, and I hope that Senator Wallace Bennett's bill will lead to a Congressional review of this situation in the near future."

The women we read of in print are either very good or very bad; the delightful average is found only in private life.

By JOE WING

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Back in Lincoln, Nebr., where I come from, there used to be an old cigar store, not far from the center of town, that featured chess and sandwiches.

The sandwiches were all right and you could get a pretty good lunch for two bits but the chess was extraordinary. Nothing cloistered about it.

To play in that company, the special skills required were temporary deafness, to shut out the exhortations of kibitzers, and ability to figure out chess combinations under the pressure of outspoken heckling. If you were a weak character you might even find the kibitzers moving the pieces for you.

When the proprietor decided to make the best of a raucous situation by charging a dime a game, the customers thinned out a little. But I never did get up the nerve to play a game there.

It was only natural nevertheless that when I came to New York I should gravitate to the chess parlor on the third floor of a dingy old building near the center of town at 42nd and Broadway. I still go there.

There, after pushing through crowds of tourists and mincing homos and gawkers and ladies on the prowl, you find a large bare room lighted by unshaded bulbs and strewn with chess tables and players and empty coffee cups, and kibitzers.

You can buy sandwiches at the parlor too and while away an evening watching characters thrust and parry across the checkered boards, at 40 cents an hour apiece, while taking an occasional glance at other characters straggling into the girls' movies across the street.

Some of the players look as if they might feel more at home in the Bowery. Others are aggressive types from the Seventh Avenue garment district around the corner. Or college students who have brought time clocks to simulate tournament conditions. There are also business men relaxing, unidentified strays, and me.

After some thousands of hours spent on the weaker side of a chess board, I have the nerve now to ask the gimlet-eyed major domo to arrange a game for me. "Beginner?" he asks. "About medium," I reply cautiously. He points to a haggard, unshaven, rumpled old man, who sizes me up quickly. "Dollar a game," he says. I know immediately I've had it. Anybody under those glaring lights who proposes a dollar a game certainly has no expectation of losing his dollar. He probably counts on it for whiskey money.

But it's Friday night and you're rich so you accept the challenge. The game hasn't advanced 10 moves before you're in more difficulties than you can account for. Ten more, he grabs your queen and it's all over.

"Got catch a train," you explain hurriedly despite his protests, dropping a dollar bill and starting down the bill-smelly flights of steps. And going to the subway you wonder why in the last 35 years or so you haven't pushed aside less essential matters, like holding down a job, and really sharpened up on your chess. You might be making whiskey money that way too.

A traveling salesman who was not feeling up to snuff, visited his doctor for a check-up. A routine examination did not reveal any particular ailment. The doctor then questioned his patient about his living habits.

"Now I'm going to get personal," said the doc, "how often do you engage in sexual relationship?"

"Every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, regularly," replied the other.

"Well," went on the doctor, "your trouble may lie there. I prescribe you eliminate the Wednesdays."

"Oh, no," answered the salesman, "I couldn't do that. That's the only night of the week I'm home!"

This One Will Kill You! This gal who had this teeny weeny bikini, see. In fact, it was so small she carried the top in one billfold, and the bottom in another billfold. One day she decided to go swimming, and put on the top, but lo and behold, she could not find the billfold with the bottom part of her bikini. But she was bound and determined to go swimming, so she went to the beach wearing only the top. Well, of course, the ever present policeman came strolling by, and as the gal was being arrested, she was heard to say, "Gee, I must have left my pants in my other billfold."

Washington - Merry Go - Round
By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON: Sen. Fulbright holds secret hearings for state department confirmations; Under Secretary Richardson has alcoholic record; His record otherwise is good.

WASHINGTON—Sen. William Fulbright, the Rhodes Scholar from Arkansas, has ditched his creed of open covenants openly arrived at to hold secret hearings on the confirmation of William P. Rogers as Secretary of state and Elliott Richardson as under secretary.

Both appear to be highly qualified men and in the past chairman Fulbright has raised Hades with the Johnson administration for too much secrecy.

One point in the career of Elliott Richardson is unfortunate and could be a reason for Chairman Fulbright's secret hearings. Richardson, a safely island and his car had to be towed to the Uptown Garage. Richardson was very abusive at the time of his arrest and threatened to have me fired. Officer Waite stated, "He stated that his Uncle Henry L. Shattuck would fix the case and then take care of me. 24, 1964, he was arrested for Richardson was very profane and disorderly at the time."

Richardson subsequently pleaded guilty to "operating a motor vehicle so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered" and to driving "under the influence of intoxicating liquor." He was fined a total of $75 and his license suspended.

Richardson's worst blunder with the law came 12 years later on an April night in 1951 when at 2 A.M. he struck a stop sign at 347 Clark Road in Brookline, then traveled through a hedge alongside the sidewalk.

public figure on the wagon.

Richardson's 15 automobile convictions extend over a period from 1938 to 1964, including two states, Massachusetts and New Hampshire, and the District of Columbia. Most of his arrests, though involving speeding, appear to be minor, but three involved driving under the influence of liquor with serious fines and license suspended.

FIRST BRUSH WITH LAW

The new Under Secretary of State's first significant brush with the law was at the age of 19 when much could be forgiven if he had learned from this lesson. Richardson was arrested on May 6, 1939, at 8:30 P.M. for operating under the influence of liquor on Beacon Street in Boston. The arresting officer, Walter F. Waite, stated that Richardson had collided with a secret hearing. Richardson, a safely island and his car had to be towed to the Uptown Garage. Richardson was very abusive at the time of his arrest and threatened to have me fired. Officer Waite stated, "He stated that his Uncle Henry L. Shattuck would fix the case and then take care of me. 24, 1964, he was arrested for Richardson was very profane and disorderly at the time."

But there's a serpent (or two) in every paradise. It just means another hazard for weekend duffers to look out for -- vacuum cleaners. And instead of greens fees, there'll be carpet tax.

This woman--a married woman--got to using birth control pills like they were candy. The other day while shopping in a super-market, she sneezed and sterilized everybody in the place.

A small boy saw his neighbor's attractive young wife taking a sunbath in her yard. "Why don't you wave at my Daddy?" he said. "He's over there watching you through his field glasses."

NARROW EDITS???????

NOT DOING ENOUGH! While planners and politicians talk of the government, rebuilding cities, guaranteeing jobs, underwriting medical care, education, social security, housing, cheap electricity, and Lord knows what else, a few facts about taxes are pertinent.

Total taxes estimated to be collected in fiscal 1968 by all other state offices, perhaps levels of government in the U.S. would equal about $3,550 per American family, up $134 from last year. Twelve years ago, taxes collected by federal, state and local governments combined were equivalent to the $1,897 per family. Total tax receipts in fiscal 1968 will exceed 1967 receipts by about $10 billion. They will be over $100 billion higher than a dozen years ago. The collections in 1968 will provide $148 billion for federal government and $69 billion for state and local governments.

There are still those who say that taxpayers are not doing enough! There are millions more of us raising families and running businesses under the mounting pressure of taxes and inflation who say that government is doing too much--much more than even the wealthiest nation on earth can afford!

New 'Presidency': Nixon Calls in Old Enemies In Search for Dramatic Proposals

NEW YORK: -- What Richard Nixon really ran last weekend was more a cultural congress than a preinauguration cabinet conclave.

There were intellectuals in abundant numbers -- any one of whom six months ago would have challenged you to a pre-dawn duel on Central Park's sheep meadow at the mere insinuation that he was going to rub shoulders with chairmen of Mr. Nixon's 22 task forces.

But the liberals, the gadflies, the voices of the old conservative left, the new conservative left, even the new left and veterans of Sen. McCarthy's war-front headquarters in Chicago, were here.

Mr. Nixon and the men of his inner sanctums knew they were here. They came by invitation, not infiltration.

They made up a strange new world of thought, an economic, intellectual, philosophical and cultural "conglomerate, bankers, academicians, hardliners, financiers, construction magnates, Wall Street lawyers, hawks and doves.

That's the way Dick Nixon wants it. That's the way he has had it for some weeks now.

"The intellectuals who have been in and out of government and political parties," said one Nixon intimate, "are the best critics of what has happened. They are lively guides to what should be done. There's a climate of anxiety and hope, and this willingness to rub shoulders can only help the nation. They are a great mixture."

Typical is the task force on voluntary action, directed at "solving" the urban and suburban crises. In effect, its assignment, as handed to Richard Cornell of the Center for Independent Action (no initials, please), is to get the inner cities and the savants to solve matters by substituting energy for money, meaning self-help and private financing, and thus build "bridges to dignity."

Its hideaway last Friday was the Hotel Plaza, that umbilical link with Diamond Jim Brady's day, catty-cornered from the Hotel Pierre. This task force is indeed a conglomerate -- running all the way from Al Cole, former chairman of the Reader's Digest Executive Committee, to Richard Goodwin and Irving Kristol.

And to get these men to rub shoulders in behalf of Richard Nixon's leadership takes considerable doing. A more

HONOR GUARD FOR LIBERTY

Widespread agreement exists among the American people that the Electoral College System should be reformed. "Reform" means a change for the better. Under the Congressional District Plan, which requires a constitutional amendment, the change really would be for the better. Both major political parties would necessarily nominate the best available candidates for electors.

Four-fifths of these electors would serve the voters of the 435 Congressional Districts. Their qualifications and attributes would be quite well known to the voters of their respective Districts. The two electors-at-large from each state would be as well known as candidates for governor and other state offices, perhaps better known.

The high calibre of candidates for elector would make them useful in a number of capacities during the campaign. They would contribute to the reputation of their party, its precepts and principles. They could campaign effectively for the candidates to whom they are pledged. They also would add to the acceptability of every better candidate for office of their federal government and $69 party from constable to President.

Their value to the nation need not end after the final election. The 535 winning nominees could gracefully join with the 535 losing nominees, probably of equal stature, to form a non-official committee to carry forward vitally needed services such as those performed by the Hoover Commission for reforming the functions of the Federal Government.

These electors could become an Honor Guard for liberty. As Former Nominees of Presidential Elector Committee, they would be in a position to perform a continuing service. HLH sweeping united front never has been welded.

It has been quite a route for the acidly gaffly Dick Goodwin -- Harvard Law, Felix Frankfurter, John Kennedy, Bob Kennedy, Dean Rusk, Lyndon Johnson, Sen. McCarthy, a pass at Ted Kennedy and now on to a Nixon task force.

It was Dick Goodwin who whipped phrases into some of John Kennedy's best speeches. It was Goodwin who went to the Punta Del Este Latin American conference for Dean Rusk. It was Goodwin who linked Sen. Gene McCarthy to the new youth and gave the politically meandering poet a voice in the village of hippy and flower power.

It even is strange to see Goodwin sit with Irvin Kristol, a young old Social Democrat who once edited the brilliant London monthly Encounter for the Congress For Cultural Freedom.

Mr. Kristol is a conservative liberal's comfort. He's as intellectual as any and knows his way through the labyrinthine old left of Max Eastman, New Leader, and Commentary.

Dick Goodwin and Irving Kristol have their prototypes on other task forces devoted to crime, pollution, civil rights, fiscal management, education, public welfare, health and government welfare.

These are men who have not pledged to kiss and not tell -- or not denounce. They are not bound by any pledges of secrecy and some are saying that "little will come of this."

But it is a political risk Richard Nixon took quite deliberately in his search for sparkling ideas, his demands for program evaluation, in his urgings upon his own command headquarters people for the redefining of the structure of government, programming and legislation.

"What we wanted, despite this high political risk," said one of those who gets up to the 39th floor, "was to get the idea process moving. So we called friends and non-friends, even antagonists. What we wanted and got is challenging questioning."

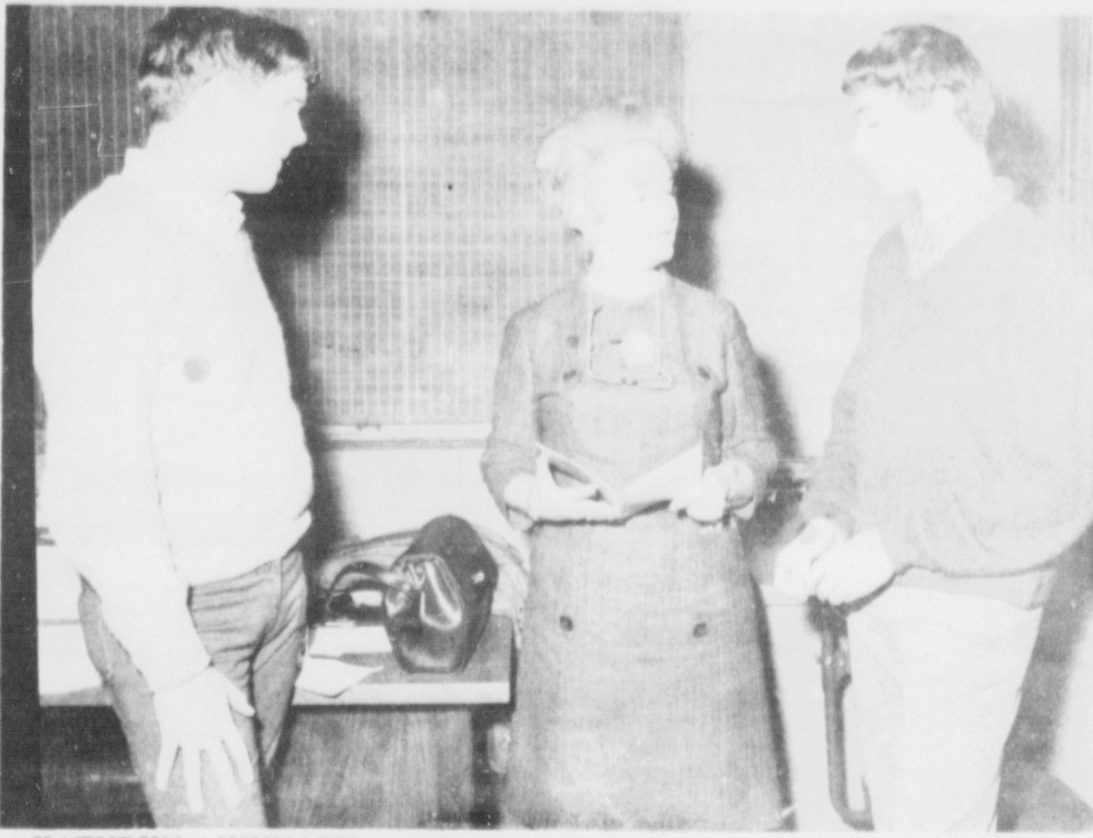

This gives us innovation from a wide range of sources, link with Diamond Jim Brady's day, a daring concept. Mr. Nixon does not intend to isolate himself, nor his White House, all the way from Al Cole, former chairman of the Reader's Digest Executive Committee, to Richard Goodwin and Irving Kristol.

Actually it's the electric application of an old theory: shoulders in behalf of Richard Nixon's leadership takes ability, so long as he's willing to do more give for his country.

Three-Ring History Of Ringlings

THOSE AMAZING RINGLINGS AND THEIR CIRCUS. By Gene Plowden. Caxton Printers, Ltd. $6.50.

For circus buffs, this is a massively detailed history of "The Greatest Show on Earth," not from the vantage point of the sawdust ring, but from the backstage area where the show was run.

It begins in the 1880s at Baraboo, Wis., where "Ringling Bros., Classic and Comic Concert Co." soon was converted into a circus. It relates the long career of the five brothers through boom and bust, the mergers, the highly profitable days of the 1920s, the dwindling size of the operation in the later years, and down to the present time, when arenas and auditoriums are used instead of "the big top."

But especially this is the story of John Ringling, the youngest of the five, and his remarkable rise and meteoric fall. John was the most colorful personality in an exceedingly colorful business.

"Ah, the good old days when your kids nicked and dined you to death, now you're overdrawn and quartered."

In his prime, John was making millions not only from the circus but also in oil wells, railroads, a bank, Florida land speculation and assorted other enterprises. He had his mansion, art museum and yacht at Sarasota and was flying high. But the land boom fizzled, and the stock market crash of 1929 was followed by the Great Depression of the '30s.

Poor John lost control of the circus to his creditors, owed a mountain of taxes to the government, and finally was turned down at the circus box office when he asked for an advance of "a lousy hundred dollars."

Plowden's book is a major recapitulation of nearly a century of Ringling history.

SEMO Grapplers Wins Millikin Title

CAPE GIRARDEAU - The face the University of Tennessee Southeast Missouri State College at Knoxville on Jan. 28.

Cape's win in the Millikin University Invitational event at Decatur, Ill., marked the return to the mats until Jan. 24 when the team began a championship of this invitational.

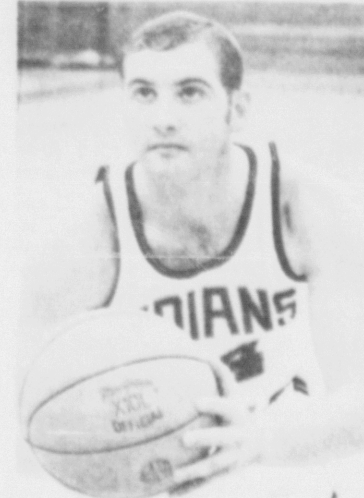

The Indian grapplers compiled 69 team points to 56 for Elmhurst, 52 for Millikin, 50 for Illinois Wesleyan, and 49 for Hillsdale.

A home match scheduled for Saturday (Jan. 18) has been reset for Feb. 1. It will pit Southeast Missouri State against Southwestern of Memphis.

Originally Principia College of Elmhurst, Ill., had been slated to participate, but the college has dropped wrestling as a varsity sport, according to Cape coach Ken Tillman.

The Jan. 24, outing for the Indian matmen will be against Centre College in Danville, Ky. 123-pound sophomore from On Jan. 25, the squad will move east to Morehead, Ky., for a double duel against Morehead State and the University of Cincinnati.

The wrestlers will invade Appalachian State College of Boone, N. C., on Jan. 27 and

Neelyville, Fisk Into Finals

NEELYVILLE - Four County basketball tournament approaches the semi-finals as the host varsity team, Neelyville, won over the Naylor Eagles 72-43. In the junior varsity division of the tourney, Fisk succeeded in downing Elsinoire, 57-42.

Neelyville's victory came with the big assistance of two players who played their first game of the season for the Tigers tonight. Roy Fields and Charles Allen helped their team in both the scoring and rebounding departments as Fields scored 32 and had 19 rebounds, and Allen scored two points and came down with 12.

Charles Moffitt, head coach for the Tigers, stated that his boys played real good offensive ball, hitting 48 percent of it's field goals, but played below par defense, especially in the first half of action.

Naylor was out tallied by the Tigers in each quarter and were down the most of the first and third as Neelyville had a 19 point edge in each of these periods.

High scorers for neelyville were Roy Fields with 32, Gerald Corban with 15, and Larry Willis with 13.

Eagles had only one player in double figures as John Armour netted 16.

In the junior varsity battle, Stevenson was the high man for Fisk with 25 and Richmond came through with 28 for Elsinoire.

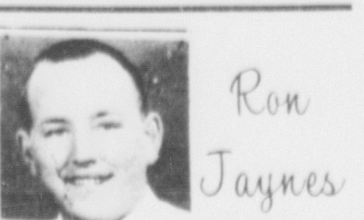

Tomorrow night's action will see Fisk going against Quin in the top division of play and Neelyville will meet Naylor in the junior varsity contest.

Consolation games will be played Friday and the finals of the competition will be held Saturday night.

Professional rodeo cowboys had a record-breaking year in 1968, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said reported.

There were 521 association sanctioned rodeos across the nation and in Canada this year, paying nearly $3.7 million in prize money. "This is the most ever won in one year by rodeo contestants," said Gene Pruett, the association's executive secretary-treasurer.

The season-ending National Finals Rodeo, annually reserved for only the top 15 money-winners in each of six events, set new attendance records. Some 58,000 fans saw this year's classic in early December in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Pruett said attendance at pro rodeos in 1969 is again expected to climb, due in large measure to increasing recognition of the sport by the news media.

Larry Mahan, 25, Brooks, Ore., this year became only the third contestant to win the coveted All Around Cowboy title three times. Previous three-time winners were Oklahoma's Jim Shoulders and Idaho's Dean Oliver.

Mahan claimed his first All Around crown in 1966 by pocketing $40,358. Last year he won a record $51,996 and this year he garnered $49,129.

1968 EVENT CHAMPIONS
Glen Franklin, 31, House, N. M., won his third world calf roping title with earnings of $33,252, a new event record and also the most ever won in any single event.

Clyde Vamvoras, 26, Burkburnett, Tex., claimed his second consecutive bareback bronc riding championship by winning $24,832, breaking the old record of $25,473 set in 1966 by Iowa's Paul Mayo.

Shawn Davis, 27, Whitehall, Mont., for the third time won the world's saddle bronc riding title, winning $22,697. Davis set the event record of $25,599 in 1965.

Jack Roddy, 31, San Jose, Calif., won $23,315 and his second steer wrestling crown. This is the second highest ever won in the event; Oklahoma's Roy Duvall pocketed $30,715 in 1967.

George Paul, 21, Del Rio, Tex., in only his second year as a pro, won the bull riding title and $27,822. He was fourth last year.

Art Arnold, 28, Buckeye, Ariz., claimed the team roping title by winning $12,323. He was second in 1956.

Sonny Davis, 33, Kenna, N. M., won the steer roping championship with $6,438, only $122 short of the record he set in 1964 when he snared the first of his three titles.

AT LEAST six new regional champions will be crowned in state high school basketball circles this season.

With state champion Matthews dropped to S classification, this sets up a new winner at Fredericktown. It was Illinois-Scott City last season.

With state champion O'Fallon Tech no longer in operation, the field at Normandy is without a defending Class L regional king.

The same is true of the L meets at Hillsboro and Lexington. The opening was left at Hillsboro when Flat River Central dropped from L to M classification.

A realignment left the Lexington meet without a 1968 title. Two, DeLaSalle and Southeast, are together in the Kansas City regional.

Two regional victors last season, Festus St. Pius and St. Louis Prep South, are together in the Hillsboro meet and the Bowling Green tournament is without a defending title.

The only new winner assured in Class S is in the Clarkton regional, where title was left vacant when Howardville, last year's state runner-up, consolidated with its Parent-the Lilbourn district.

Biggest school in the playoffs will be Hazelwood with an enrollment of 6,322. St. Louis Lutheran South is the smallest L entry at 628.

Schools in the M classification range from Hancock, 620, to four with enrollments of 202—Concordia, Huntville Westran, Ellsinoire and Oran.

Big S school is Rock Port at 199 and the smallest is Wheeling, with 28 pupils.

Third-place games have been eliminated from regional meets as of this season.

THE SEMO coaches handed the Harlem Stars a defeat at Bell City last week in a game for the benefit of the Cubs booster club. Naemon "Pete" Townsend led the winners in scoring with 30 points with John Boyd adding 24, Neal Botsch 17 and Vivian Reed 10.

Ninth Ranked Villanova Upset

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wildcats of Villanova ran afoul of the cool cats of Pennsylvania Wednesday night. The result was a Penn slowdown that left Villanova Coach Jack Kraft doing a slow burn after the unheralded Quakers upset the ninth-ranked Wildcats 32-30.

The only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action was the fourth-ranked Davidson Wildcats, who scratched out a 90-82 triumph over stubborn Wake Forest.

A long jump shot by sophomore Steve Bilsky with three seconds left gave Penn its dramatic victory and saddled Villanova with its second loss in 12 starts.

The Quakers froze the ball after Villanova's high-scoring Howard Porter, who managed only three points all night, missed a free throw with 3:35 remaining. Villanova stayed in its zone and finally Penn called time out with 26 seconds left and

Division Announced

By AABC

AKRON, Ohio - The Junior Division (16 and under) of the American Amateur Baseball Congress (AABC), has a new name!

Effective with the 1969 season, it will be identified as the Mickey Mantle Division, honoring the great super star of the New York Yankees, it is announced jointly by Lincoln Hackim, AABC president, and Robert O. Fishel, vice president public relations, for the Yankees.

"We are privileged and thrilled to add the name of Mickey Mantle to our program," Hackim commented. "Mantle complements the baseball greats already associated with the Congress, Stan Musial and Connie Mack."

In addition to the Mickey Mantle Division, the AABC administers the Stan Musial Division (unlimited age), the Connie Mack Division (18 and under) and the Minor Division (14 and under). The AABC operates in 46 states and in Canada.

"I am deeply honored," Mantle said, "and the Yankees share my enthusiasm. It is a privilege to be identified with such a worthwhile amateur baseball program, one that is contributing so much to our youth and our national pastime."

Mantle, 17-year veteran of American League, has won virtually every major league baseball honor, including most valuable player in the American League (1956, 1957 and 1962), triple crown (1956), top professional athlete (1956) and major league player of the year (1956). Currently third on the all-time home run list with 536 lifetime homers, Mantle led the American League in home runs four times (1955, 1956, 1958 and 1960).

It was a little further out than I usually shoot from, but I knew there wouldn't be time to set up a better shot." Coach Dick Harter, who resorted to the slowdown several times in the past, was ecstatic.

Tournament Set

Advance and Dexter were seeded first in their respective A and B brackets for the Stoddard County Tournament which gets underway Jan. 27 at Bloomfield.

Six teams Advance, Bell City, Bernie, Richland, Bloomfield, and Puxico make up the conference, with Dexter and Woodland being invited to fill out the eight team bracket.

All of the eight teams play each other during the season with the exception of Dexter and Woodland, who do not meet each other.

Four games will be played the first two days of the tournament, with two games in each division scheduled.

Finals are set for Saturday.

Bowl Sunday

In LA

LOS ANGELES AP - Quarterback Earl Morrall, who led the Baltimore Colts to the National Football League championship but came up short in the Super Bowl, hopes for better luck Sunday.

The veteran quarterback will share action with the Los Angeles Rams' Roman Gabriel in the 19th annual East-West All-Star Pro Bowl.

Coach George Allen of the Rams, who pilots the West, indicated Thursday Morrall will start the game.

"Morrall is the league's Player of the Year and he certainly deserves to start," said Allen.

The East's coach, Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys, can choose between his own Don Meredith and Fran Tarkenton of the New York Giants.

Morrall will be working with two of his receivers from the Colts, John Mackey and Willie Richardson. He also will have Green Bay's Carroll Dale and the NFL's leading receiver, Clifton McNeil of the San Francisco 49ers.

"I can't believe it," he said. "Villanova's the best team we've played since I've been here."

Ecstatic doesn't quite describe Kraft's feelings. "What can I say?" he wailed. "I tried everything I could to make them play, but they wouldn't. I'm not about to fault Dick. It's what he felt he had to do to win, and he won."

"I feel bad for our kids. I feel bad that we lost that way. I would have liked it better if we'd gotten bombed. But that's the game of basketball. You've got to expect everything. The last thing I told the boys when they went out on the court was to watch for the slowdown."

Penn led 19-18 at halftime and the winning shot made Bilsky the game's high scorer with 10 points.

Davidson made 30 of 44 free throws to turn back Wake Forest. It was the Wildcats' 11th triumph in 12 games.

They opened up six-point leads several times in the first half, but Wake Forest caught up each time. The Wildcats then broke away from a 43-41 halftime lead to a nine-point margin midway through the second half behind Mike Maloy and Jerry Kroll, who scored 27 and 23 points, respectively.

Meet Sunday

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. AP - Hank Stram wouldn't dispute for a minute that Joe Namath is a great quarterback, but he doesn't think that gives any edge to the East team in Sunday's American Football League All-Star game.

"We think we have two great quarterbacks," said, coach of the West All-Stars. His signal callers are San Diego's John Hadl and his own Kansas City chief, Len Dawson.

Just as Namath will have familiar pass receivers in his New York Jet teammates, George Sauer and Bon Maynard, Hadl will have San Diego compatriots.

The West squad of pass receivers includes Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison from San Diego. As a replacement for Billy Cannon of Oakland at tight end, Hadl got a bonus in teammate Jacques MacKinnon.

"Add to that group Bob Trumpy of Cincinnati and Warren Wells of Oakland and you can see that we have super quarterbacks," Stram said. "Because none of his West points players had seen action in at Michigan 13, Jacksonville State least three weeks, Stram worked 12, Wartburg, Iowa 10, Florida them twice a day Monday Southern 10 and Murray State through Wednesday and tapered 10 off to once today."

"Our timing is coming along," he said, "and I think we've caught up with the East in conditioning."

The 11 members of the world champion Jets on the East team had the advantage, as Stram sees it, of playing in the Super Bowl last Sunday.

Lemm, Houston Oilers coach guiding the East All-Stars, had a ragged session Wednesday when the Jets joined the team for the first time.

"We will put it together by Friday," Lemm said with an unworried look. "These are pros and they will be ready to play."

Recession Feared at War's End

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today in his final Economic Report that he's leaving behind a solid foundation for continued prosperity, but he conceded that his success will have to deal with major problems in the economy.

The President, in sending his report to Congress, said the United States has experienced an unprecedented period of prosperity in the last eight years, all under Democratic administrations. This has permitted, he said, major investments which should insure continued economic growth for the indefinite future.

To support Johnson's case, the Economic Report listed investments in:

—Industrial plant and equipment, which has grown by nearly a third in five years.

—Manpower, more than a million persons have acquired skills through government-aided programs.

—Education, which has seen a spectacular increase of 2.2 million in college enrollments since 1963.

—Urban centers which, the President said, are beginning to be restored "as decent places to live."

Johnson said, "The nation is now in its 95th month of continuous economic advance. Both in strength and length, this prosperity is without parallel in our history."

"We have steered clear of the business-cycle recessions which for generations derailed us repeatedly from our path of growth and progress."

But the president saw one flaw in his generally rosy economic analysis—the wage-price spiral which became especially serious in 1968.

He insisted that this was caused in no small part by the failure of Congress to enact the 10 per cent income surtax in January, 1967, when he first asked for it. The bill passed 18 months later.

Congressional critics have said this delay resulted largely from a refusal by Johnson and his Defense Department to present the true costs of the Vietnam war at the time they first became obvious.

In any event, Johnson declared in his report that the job of combining national prosperity with price stability "is the biggest remaining over-all challenge facing the nation."

Industrial countries have never solved this problem of inflation, said Johnson, and the United States could not solve it either in the short-term future.

But he expressed confidence that eventually an answer would be found. "There is no simple nor single formula for success," he commented. "But this combination (high employment and stable prices) can and must be achieved by the United States and within the next several years."

"Now that we have learned to sustain prosperity, we can surely not allow inflation to erode or erase that victory."

The solutions he advocated lean heavily on the so-called "New Economics."

Cutting taxes and raising government spending in periods of economic slowdown, the opposite when booms threaten to get out of hand, higher interest rates in inflationary times, lower ones in slack periods.

But the President said there also must be other steps. One of these, he said, is steady improvement in the productivity of American industries and workers. Another is voluntary agreement by both business and labor to restrain themselves in raising prices and demanding wage boosts.

Johnson said he recommended a $35 billion budget surplus and extension of the surtax as "a tight and prudent program" appropriate to the present inflationary period. He estimated that this would hold the increase in the nation's output of goods and services to $60 billion in 1969 compared to the $71 billion recorded in 1968.

"The overall gains will not and should not be as large as those in 1968, but they will still make for a highly prosperous year," he said.

Without this restraint, said Johnson, serious economic pitfalls were possible. A demand could arise for wage and price controls, he said, and imposing them would mean "a dead end for economic freedom and progress."

In addition to maintaining prosperity with price stability, Johnson said the Nixon administration would face three other major economic problems. He described them this way:

"We must more fully secure the foundations of the world monetary system and of our own balance of payments."

"We must fulfill our many unmet public needs such as good education, efficient transportation, clean air and water, quality as well as quantity is the key to a better life."

"We must share more equitably the fruits of prosperity among all our citizens. A nation as prosperous as ours cannot afford to leave any citizen in poverty."

Members of the Council of Economic Advisers, whose report was submitted along with that of the President, endorsed the economic tactics followed in his budget, and predicted they should act to hold price increases to around 3 per cent in 1969, compared with 5 per cent in 1968.

The economists said they had been greatly surprised at the failure of the income surtax to slow the economy more during the last half of 1968, but said that the tax and the federal budget surplus should take hold in the first six months of 1969 and bring about a "significant slowdown."

In his farewell message, the President said he had become fully confident Americans are determined "to provide a good job, a decent standard of living, quality education and a pleasing environment for everyone."

"We have begun to make progress toward these aspirations," he said.

"But we have only begun. And because we have so far to go, many of us are impatient. This feeling is in the great American tradition. High aspirations and impatience have constantly spurred us to greater achievements."

"And they will again. Our economy will not rest on the laurels of the 1960's. We will not relax to count or consolidate our gains. We will not retreat from the unprecedented prosperity we have achieved. This nation will remain on the march."

Johnson used the economic message to put in a last plug for numerous proposals, some submitted previously, which he said would mean a better life for Americans.

These included expanded grants and loans to bring a college education in the reach of every qualified student, bigger workman's compensation payments, an expanded unemployment compensation system, increased Social Security payments, a shorter waiting period of Social Security disability benefits, and expansion of the food stamp program.

He said also that the gold price should stay at $35 an ounce, that an urban mass transportation trust fund should be created out of auto excise tax revenues, and that Congress protect quality as well as quantity in the efforts to erect trade barriers.

The President said he was highly gratified that the U.S. balance of international payments was in the black in 1968 for the first time in 11 years. But he conceded that this resulted at least in part from temporary factors and that therefore the basic problem remained for his successor.

Chimpiness fashion and use of trade implements. Some device from times ample tools to aid in fishing out tomatoes from their earthen nests. Some make meanious drinking "sponges" by crumpling leaves.

"What really counts," Miller said, "is the regular operating accounts. If deficits occur in these, they must be covered by increased federal borrowing—the root cause of the inflation that has been sweeping the country."

"This is a deceptive budget," Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., a Senate Armed Services Committee member said the course of the Vietnam war will have a heavy influence on the

Industrial Mishaps

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri Division of Industrial inspection reported today 15 people were killed in Missouri industry in December, a decrease of 2 from the previous month.

George W. Flexsenhar, director, reported 8,063 accidents in December, a decrease of 63 from November. Overall cost of December accidents totaled $17,944,623, down $1,432,923 from November.

New Agriculture Budget Offers No New Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson proposed Wednesday outlays of $6,903,318,000 for the Agriculture Department in fiscal 1970, a reduction of $460,082,000 from the fiscal year.

Johnson proposed neither major new farm programs nor changes in price support or other policies.

Early changes aren't expected from the Nixon administration either. Secretary-designate Clifford M. Hardin has indicated he will seek the views of farmers and farm organizations before proposing major shifts in policy.

Major emphasis in the 1970 fiscal year, Johnson said, will be given to:

The rural part of the new 10-year nationwide housing program to help low-income families afford better housing.

Expansion of loan programs for farm operations, farm ownership, and nonfarm enterprises to help low-income farmers and rural people.

Republicans See Budget Deficit Instead of Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans in Congress are complaining that the $195.3 billion spending budget submitted to Congress by President Johnson will produce a deficit instead of the surplus that Johnson claimed.

Democrats, meanwhile, indicated they will wait to see President-elect Nixon's legislative program before they act to put Johnson's proposals for full funding of welfare programs into effect.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he'll get the figuring straight "before pouncing on Johnson's contention that his budget would give Nixon a $24 billion surplus in the fiscal year beginning July 1."

But Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, a new member of the Senate Finance Committee, pinpointed the GOP's main objection. He said Johnson had counted as revenue surpluses being piled up in trust fund accounts for future Social Security and medicare benefits.

"What really counts," Miller said, "is the regular operating accounts. If deficits occur in these, they must be covered by increased federal borrowing—the root cause of the inflation that has been sweeping the country."

Public Investments for Health Care, Education and Training in Rural Communities to Help the Rural Labor Force and Encourage Private Investment and Industry in Rural America

Johnson proposed outlays totaling $2.9 billion, a decrease of $88 million from this fiscal year. Smaller crops of wheat and soybeans anticipated in 1969 and increased utilization of feed grains and soybeans, he said, account for most of the decrease. The nation's farmers in 1968 raised record crops of both wheat and soybeans.

Three major problems, Johnson said, still plague the American farmer and rural areas: excess farm productive capacity, inadequate income for many rural people, and declining rural communities. The President said the Farmers Home Administration will expand its loan commitments in 1970, with the largest increase going to the new 10-year housing program for low-income people in rural areas.

Johnson said the cost of the Vietnam war has been a load for the U. S. economy to carry, and not a pro supporting it.

The report, sent to Congress today by the President, said the economy would be subjected to the same deflationary pressures that followed the Korean War.

While not predicting any date for an end to hostilities in Vietnam, the committee of top White House advisers based estimates on an assumption that the transition to peace could be essentially completed by July 1, 1971—in other words, the start of could come in a number of ways. Hostilities might decline current 10 per cent income expenditures, or there could be a surplus is still in effect when the lengthy armed truce which fighting ends, earlier phase-out would not permit a significant of the tax could help offset any reduction of U. S. forces in economic growth. It also urged that a detailed plan to speed up within six months after a truce government spending on high there would be a genuine priority projects be prepared assurance of peace and the now to cushion the impact of beginning of a full withdrawal of U. S. troops, the report gave the following estimates for a rapid peace economy.

The report of the Cabinet committee, under preparation since March 1967, carried the signatures of Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, Treasury Secretary Joseph P. Barr, Commerce Secretary C. R. Smith, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Budget Director Charles J. Zwick and Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Anticipating that the U. S. economy will be generating ability of the new administration to operate in the black.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, said Johnson had taken "a courageous course" in recommending increased welfare spending, and "I hope that President Nixon will see the need for continuing programs to meet our domestic problems."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic leader, and a possible candidate for his party's 1972 presidential nomination, said he thinks most Democrats will want to see Nixon's program before drafting any alternative proposals.

The responsibility lies with the President-elect to suggest action in a variety of fields," he said. "Hopefully there will be an early meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee to identify the areas in which the party ought to move to meet the needs."

"I am sure we will want to develop our own priorities but we must wait to see what Mr. Nixon proposes."

Budget for Education Liked Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal aid to education would continue to rise under the budget proposed yesterday by President Johnson, with major increases going to help disadvantaged children under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The President called for an increase of $406 million, to a total of $5.3 billion, in educational spending for fiscal 1970 continuing a steadily rising curve of federal aid to education over the past four years.

The budget proposes an increase of $103 million, for a total of $1,725,000, for programs to improve slum schools.

Funds for educational opportunity grants would rise from $124.6 million to $175.6 million to help 30,000 students in colleges and universities.

More Than $1 Trillion—One Thousand Billion—by 1972, the report said the cost of the Vietnam war has been a load for the U. S. economy to carry, and not a pro supporting it.

Depended on the defense buildup and will not need high military spending to support it in peace time," the report said.

The amount available for federal "peace and growth" spending would amount to $22 billion by fiscal 1972 and would increase at the rate of $7 billion to $8 billion a year thereafter, once peace is restored, it was estimated.

The report warned that peace 1971 in other words, the start of could come in a number of ways. Hostilities might decline current 10 per cent income expenditures, or there could be a surplus is still in effect when the lengthy armed truce which fighting ends, earlier phase-out would not permit a significant of the tax could help offset any reduction of U. Budget for Education Liked Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal aid to education would continue to rise under the budget proposed yesterday by President Johnson, with major increases going to help disadvantaged children under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

The President called for an increase of $406 million, to a total of $5.3 billion, in educational spending for fiscal 1970 continuing a steadily rising curve of federal aid to education over the past four years.

The budget proposes an increase of $103 million, for a total of $1,725,000, for programs to improve slum schools.

Funds for educational opportunity grants would rise from $124.6 million to $175.6 million to help 30,000 students in colleges and universities.

City Officials Again Rebuffed By Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Officials of Missouri's larger cities have again been rebuffed by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in their efforts to get increased state aid.

The officials, including Mayors A. J. Cervantes of St. Louis and H. Davis of Kansas City, met with Hearnes Wednesday for nearly two hours.

Hearnes again suggested the idea of authorizing cities to levy a small local sales tax to be collected by the state and returned to the cities. He said this would allow the cities to solve their own problems.

Davis said the League of Municipalities would go ahead in its campaign for legislation that would increase some state tax such as the income tax, by $60 million a year and rebate it to the cities.

Cervantes emerged from the meeting to declare that "this is an all-out fight by the cities. (Hearnes) recognizes it or not."

Other officials at the meeting were Mayors Donald Slusher of Independence, Douglas Merrifield of St. Joseph and Carl Stilwell of Springfield. St. Louis comptroller John Poelker and Mayor Cervantes' brother, The Rev. Lucius Cervantes, S. J.

Other operating expenditures would drop by $4 billion over a slightly longer period.

—Expenditures for procurement would be reduced by $8 billion over an interval of 30 months.

The report thus estimated that defense spending would be reduced $8 billion by the end of 12 months, $16 billion by the end of 18 months, and $19 billion at the end of 30 months.

The United States now is spending $80 billion for defense. In the absence of peace it was estimated that defense purchases would reach $86 billion after 18 months, and $90 billion after 30 months. But if a genuine peace is reached, the report estimated that defense purchases could be reduced to $73 billion by fiscal 1972.

Among suggested new programs the report recommended a negative income tax, which it said could make major inroads on poverty while preserving work incentives, at a cost of $15 billion to $20 billion a year. It would still need to be reinforced by housing, health, education and job training.

Another proposal was for an urban development bank, also mentioned in Johnson's final budget.

To handle the problems of readjustment which could add an estimated 600,000 to the labor force during the 18 months following a truce, the report said a readjustment operations committee should be established to take responsibility for detailed planning.

Johnson said the cost of the Vietnam war has been a load for the U. S. economy to carry, and not a pro supporting it.

Depended on the defense buildup and will not need high military spending to support it in peace time," the report said.

The amount available for federal "peace and growth" spending would amount to $22 billion by fiscal 1972 and would increase at the rate of $7 billion to $8 billion a year thereafter, once peace is restored, it was estimated.

The report warned that peace 1971 in other words, the start of could come in a number of ways. Hostilities might decline current 10 per cent income expenditures, or there could be a surplus is still in effect when the lengthy armed truce which fighting ends, earlier phase-out would not permit a significant of the tax could help offset any reduction of U. S. forces in economic growth. It also urged that a detailed plan to speed up within six months after a truce government spending on high there would be a genuine priority projects be prepared assurance of peace and the now to cushion the impact of beginning of a full withdrawal of U. S. troops, the report gave the following estimates for a rapid peace economy.

The report of the Cabinet committee, under preparation since March 1967, carried the signatures of Defense Secretary Clark Clifford, Treasury Secretary Joseph P. Barr, Commerce Secretary C. R. Smith, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, Budget Director Charles J. Zwick and Chairman Arthur M. Okun of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

Anticipating that the U. S. economy will be generating ability of the new administration to operate in the black.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, said Johnson had taken "a courageous course" in recommending increased welfare spending, and "I hope that President Nixon will see the need for continuing programs to meet our domestic problems."

Kennedy, assistant Senate Democratic leader, and a possible candidate for his party's 1972 presidential nomination, said he thinks most Democrats will want to see Nixon's program before drafting any alternative proposals.

The responsibility lies with the President-elect to suggest action in a variety of fields," he said. "Hopefully there will be an early meeting of the Democratic Policy Committee to identify the areas in which the party ought to move to meet the needs."

Crime Control Budget Boosted

million in the new fiscal year.

Johnson said the Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968 is a landmark law representing the first federal program for direct major assistance to states and cities to combat lawlessness, bolster law enforcement and improve court and correctional systems.

The President also said the Juvenile Delinquency Prevention and Control Act of last year authorized grants to states and local agencies in dealing with youths individually in their own communities.

For the two new programs, the president said, the budget provides $206 million dollars in 1970.

Johnson listed legislation enacted during his administration which he said provide a firm basis for an improved anti-crime effort. He said Congress should take an "urgent next step" to enact legislation requiring federal gun registration and licensing to reduce the tragically large number of violent crimes and deaths involving firearms. He also urged a stronger antiganing law in a move against organized crime.

Urges Support of VanLandingham Bill

By Lynn Twitty
Realizing that the state of Missouri should pay more of the cost of financing its public schools from non-property tax sources, Senator Basye VanLandingham, Majority Floor Leader and Chairman, Interim School Finance Study Committee, introduced the first senate bill of the 75th General Assembly relating to this problem. If approved, the bill will provide for a change in the school foundation formula for allocating state funds and would increase state school money by approximately $35,000,000 during each of the next four years.

VanLandingham's measure is based on the belief that the state should move as early as possible toward paying at least 50% of the current operating cost of the public schools. This is partially to relieve continued pressure and increases in the property tax, now the only source which local school districts have to pay for their costs; the bill would allow for greater efficiency and economy of administration because school boards could plan for more than one year in advance and would allow increases in teachers' salaries to attract and retain qualified individuals.

The bill would also allocate some state funds on the basis of need, that is, would give more money to those schools having greater percentages of disadvantaged children and whose educational needs are greater because of this fact. It would slightly increase the amount going for equalization, i.e., the poorer districts, this increase would be from the present 16% to 20% and would go only to those school districts that levied a minimum of $2.75 on a ratio of 30% assessment of the actual value of its taxable property.

We figure roughly, that if this bill were passed, it would increase our state school funds here by about $180,000. This would allow the board of education to make substantial increases in teacher salary schedules, our greatest need. This would help us to retain good teachers and to make qualified replacements when the need arose. Any time that the taxpayer spends additional services or benefits. The most effective way to bring about better education is to provide salaries that will encourage the most competent individuals to go into the teaching profession and to pay them enough to keep them in it. Consequently, the student would receive the benefits of any additional tax funds, which is as it should be.

The VanLandingham bill merits the support of all citizens. We feel that more emphasis should be given to equalization of educational opportunities, but the measure is still a very sound one and we appreciate the Senator's concern for better schools and his tangible effort to bring it about.

Schools have rightly been criticized for not using their buildings and facilities as fully as they should in providing educational services for their communities. Some of them, though not as many as in past years, are open for only six or seven hours per day for nine months per year. This does not seem to be very wise utilization of the rather sizable amounts of people's money which is invested in them.

We do not believe that this criticism would be valid here as the Board of Education provides some sort of educational activity for the community's children and adults almost on a round-the-clock, every-month-of-the-year basis. A visit to the Senior High School on almost any night, excepting Sundays, will prove this fact. Regular classes for day students begin at 7:30 A.M., continue at least until 3:30 P.M. when other youth and adults come in for classes that last to as late as 10:30 P.M. Some adult education programs are also conducted during the regular school day off the Senior High campus.

Many of these extra educational programs are financed by federal funds, organized through our Board of Education, some are extension classes from the university or the state college and, in fact, the Board here makes every effort to provide any type of program for which there is a need and for which the money can be gotten. Regular school funds for the regular elementary and secondary are not used for any other purpose, but other sources of financial support are used as fully as possible to provide these extra educational experiences.

While in some cases we transport school children, for safety reasons, for distances that are less than one mile, the transportation program is set up and approved for transportation only for those children who live one mile or more from the school to which they go. The state reimburses us only for those students who live one or more miles from the school which they attend.

Sometimes parents do not understand this and request transportation when they do not live one mile from the school. Because of the state regulations we, of course, can not provide transportation in such cases. Sometimes this may mean that a kindergarten child in particular family may live one mile from the kindergarten which he attends and consequently is entitled to ride the bus, while other children in the same family may attend one of the other schools which is not a mile from their home and these children can not be transported. This may be inconvenient, but it is simply one of the facts of life, or that is, of state policy.

We encourage parents to request, through the principal, teacher conferences whenever possible concerning the school progress of their children, especially if there is a need for improvement in the learning process. Written reports which we send home may give a fairly good picture of what the student is doing, but the most effective way to find out and to bring about any improvement which may be possible is to talk with the teacher who is involved.

We have had some abuse of parking privileges at the school both by students and even sometimes by visitors. We make every effort to keep school campuses well-kept and attractive. Unauthorized parking off the regular parking areas disturbs the grass, grounds or shrubbery and creates an unsightly appearance, in addition to raising our costs of maintaining the campuses.

Those students who violate parking regulations, will be required to turn in their driving permits and to pay for any damages created by parking violations. The cooperation of all individuals, students or visitors, is requested in order that we may maintain the school campuses in the proper manner. We received Bill Sapp's request, to be relieved of coaching duties, with considerable regret. He has made a real contribution to the educational welfare of many students through the sound athletic program which he has headed.

While we do not consider winning to be the most important outcome of a school athletic program, we still keep this as an aim and only a very few coaches in the entire nation can match his record in this respect. Coach Sapp will assume other duties in the school program.

Now, as is true in the case of any good teacher, we are faced with the problem of finding a competent and qualified replacement who will continue to give the same guidance and learning experience to our students.

We have already received a number of applicants, some good candidates, and expect that many other qualified individuals will apply. As in all teaching position vacancies, the Board will employ a qualified replacement as early as is feasible.

Bob Miller, Director of Elementary Education, was a panel member this week at a meeting of Southeast Missouri State College's organization of Future Teachers of America. The subject which the panel considered was "What Schools are Looking for in a Teacher."

Investor Conference to Draw Top Market Figures

NEW YORK (AP)—In one vast hotel room later this month will be assembled representatives of at least $300 billion of assets, most of which are in securities. These are the men who make the stock market move.

Among the 2,000 money managers will be insurance men, mutual and pension fund portfolio managers, bankers, trust fund administrators, heads of nonprofit foundations. The event: The Second Annual Institutional Investor Conference.

The common interest of all will be common stocks, for in these days of inflation and technological change, investors once willing to make a few per cent a year are now going after 10 to 100 per cent. In some respects it's a mad race.

Mutual funds, for example, are geared to "performance." This means they will take bigger risks and trade in-out more often in order to show their quarterly reports that they're doing better than the next fund.

This, of course, attracts a lot of attention to the winner, and soon the winner is buried in an avalanche of orders. One mutual fund this year had to suspend operations while its clerks frantically recorded new orders. It was doing too well.

This isn't the only fate of the highly successful performer. Some of the best young funds attract so much money that they can't find suitable investment opportunities. And so they, too, fall behind in the race.

Nevertheless, the highly publicized performance of the funds has put other institutions on the spot. Most of them have been forced to blow the dust off old securities and take greater risks for greater profits. Because of their activities, Gustave Levy, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, estimated recently that as much as 50 per cent of all trading on the Big Board is by institutions rather than individuals.

This steady reduction in power of the individual has created serious problems of regulation and ethics. The stock market today is hardly one of random trading, the consequences of which are now being studied by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A check at the SEC documents this growing concentration of stock ownership and stock market activity. Since 1968, private parties have been selling direct their holding of stocks: the institutions have been big buyers.

Foreign and domestic individuals still accounted for 66.5 per cent of all stock ownership up to June 30, 1968, according to the SEC, the breakdown being $462.5 billion owned by Americans and $23.2 billion by foreigners.

Most individuals, however, are investors rather than speculators or short term traders. They wouldn't care not understand how to turn over their portfolios by the week or month or year. Instead they buy for several years, even decades. Because of more frequent trading, the following SEC estimates of stock ownership are even more significant than they appear:

Personal trusts, $78.4 billion or 10.7 per cent of all stock—common and preferred, listed on exchanges or traded over the counter.

Investment companies, or mutual funds, $54.1 billion or 7.4 per cent.

Private, noninsured pension funds, $54 billion or 7.4 per cent.

Foundations, such as Ford and Rockefeller, $15.2 billion, or 2.1 per cent.

Property and casualty insurance companies, $13.6 billion or 1.9 per cent; life insurance companies, $11.8 billion or 1.6 per cent.

College endowments, $8.4 billion or 1.1 per cent; common trust funds, $4 billion or 0.5 per cent; state and local trusts or pensions, $4.8 billion or 0.7 per cent; banks, $2 billion or 0.3 per cent.

Now if money meant freedom from problems this conference would be dull, but instead there is at least one major problem per billion dollar of assets. This is a young and growing investment trend. So young is it, in fact, that the sponsor is a two-year-old magazine, The Institutional Investor, headed by a 27-year-old publisher, Gilbert Kaplan. It ought to be a great party.

Researchers at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., are developing this portable field shelter, which will protect soldiers against chemical and biological agents. Attached to the front of the shelter is a collapsible airlock for contamination-free entrance and exit.

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md. (ANF) — Military and civilian researchers are developing a portable field shelter that will protect at least 10 soldiers against chemical and biological agents.

The quonset hut-shaped shelter carries the formal name of XM51 Collective Protective Shelter System (CB Pressurized Pod). It is being developed by the Defense Development and Engineering Laboratories, Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and the American Air Filter Co., Inc., St. Louis.

Army officials at Edgewood Arsenal said the pressurized pod can be used for a command post, communications center, medical aid station or air operations center.

It has 210 square feet of interior space.

In addition, the shelter will provide a toxic-free area where combat troops who have been wearing protective masks or clothing for extended periods can eat, shave, relax or perform assigned duties.

The 2,400-pound shelter system can be unpacked, assembled and put into operation by four men in about 20 minutes.

The shelter, made of a flexible synthetic material, has dual walls of tube-like ribs, 15 inches in diameter, which are inflated with filtered air to make them rigid.

One end of the shelter has a collapsible, inflatable airlock to provide contamination-free entrance and exit.

To prevent infiltration of contaminants, filtered and conditioned air inside the shelter and airlock is kept at a higher pressure than the outside air.

The complete shelter unit consists of five major components: the shelter and airlock, a gas and particulate filtration unit, an environmental control unit for heating and cooling, a 20-horsepower standard military gasoline engine and a standard 1½-ton, two-wheel cargo trailer.

Four prototype shelters already have been tested at various Army installations in the United States. Fifteen additional units are being built for engineering and service tests.

Mo. Utilities Wants Increase In Cape Rates

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Missouri Utilities Co. of Cape Girardeau announced Wednesday it is seeking gas and water rate increases that will boost its annual revenue by an estimated $369,000.

The utility asked for a $135,000 gas rate increase in and around the cities of Cape Girardeau, Dexter, Scott City, Bloomfield, Illinois, Essex and Kelso. The average boost would be about 85 cents a month.

It requested a rate increase of almost $79,000 for its water distribution system in Cape Girardeau. The average monthly boost would be 76 cents.

round table for the four powers, but the Germans were assigned rectangular tables removed from the round table only by a thickness of a pencil.

The new agreement stands with two other major landmarks in the Vietnam War negotiations. The first, last spring, was the Washington-Hanoi accord on Paris as a meeting place after a month of argument about various other cities. The second milestone was the Washington-Hanoi agreement at the end of October ending U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, and including South Vietnam and the NLF in the new phase of negotiations.

South Vietnam balked at that agreement because of the apparent status it gave to the NLF. Throughout the weeks since, the U.S. has been involved in trying to work out a formula for the talks which would satisfy the communists and South Vietnam.

OBITUARIES

BENJAMIN W. STEWART

DEXTER - Benjamin W. Stewart, 84, died at his residence Wednesday.

He was born in Maud Nov. 14, 1884. He married Miss Lennie Watts of Bloomfield Aug. 14, 1932. She survives.

He was a member of the Methodist Church in Dexter. Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday in the Methodist Church with the Rev. Robert McCoy officiating.

Burial will follow in the Dexter Cemetery with Rainey Funeral Home in charge.

Unlike the U.S. program, which has Saturn 5 rockets powerful enough to propel men moonward with a single launch, the Soviets will require perhaps five or six difference launches to assemble in earth orbit the rockets, spacecraft and fuel supplies needed for a lunar landing, knowledgeable observers believe.

In addition, recent remarks by cosmonauts and Soviet officials after the Soyuz 3 flight by Col Georgy Beregovoy last October indicate Soyuz craft cannot take heat and pressure buildups of a 25,000-mile-an-hour re-entry encountered by spaceships returning to earth from the vicinity of the moon.

Soyuz craft can only re-enter at earth orbital speeds of 17,500 miles an hour, the Soviets indicated.

If so, this means a flight to the moon using Soyuz would require firing from the lunar surface into earth orbit first, then re-entering the atmosphere - an extremely difficult sequence which Russia has not yet proven it can accomplish.

Grass Fire

DEXTER - A grass fire alarm was answered yesterday by firemen on West Stoddard street behind Vowel's Tire Company. No damage was reported.

WELZA SWINGER

ESSEX - Welza Swinger, 56, died at his residence Tuesday.

Born April 16, 1912 in Essex, he was a well-known farmer in Risco.

He was a member of the Church of the Brethren at Risco. Surviving are his wife, Edna, of the home; two sons, Lynn Swinger, Sydney, Ohio, and Earl Swinger, Dexter; one daughter, Annetta Nelson, Marion, Iowa; his father, Roy Swinger, Essex; four brothers, Glenn Swinger, Rippon, N. Y.; Harold Swinger, Marshall; Roy Galen Swinger, Eureka, and Melvin Swinger, Ganado, Ariz.; and five grandchildren.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Friday in the Rainey Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Ramey Gass officiating.

Burial will follow in the Dexter cemetery.

L. E. 'GENE' JONES

DEXTER - L.E. 'Gene' Jones, 70, died Tuesday in Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

He was born Jan. 13, 1889 in Salem, Mo.

He married Sue DeGrant Oct. 11, 1920 in Farmington.

A former business man of Dexter, he owned the Dexter Bakery. He was a member of the First Baptist church, and belonged to the Masonic Lodge.

Surviving are his wife of the home; one son, James E. Jones, Dexter; two daughters, Mrs. James Pepper, Bloomfield, and Mrs. Louis Lee Mothersbaugh, San Bernardino, Calif.; one brother, Woodrow Jones, Hayward, Calif.; one half-brother, Bill Jones, St. Louis; three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Woods, Mrs. Henry Schneider, and Mrs. Bessie Quirk, all of St. Louis; one half-sister, Mrs. Bertha Pryor, four grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Services were at 2 p.m. today in the Rainey Funeral Chapel. Burial was in the Dexter cemetery.

The U.S. Navy ordered radar for ships in 1936.

Schools, Clubs To See Future Uses of Phones

Dave Hargis, science demonstrator for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, will be in Sikeston next week to show "The Incredible Machine," a preview of telephone services of the future.

Sikeston organizations that will see the program are the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Area schools to see the program are Kelly High School, Matthews High School and Sikeston Senior High.

The program centers around the vast telephone switching network which is basically a huge computer that calls control when dialing telephone numbers.

Hargis will show some of the conveniences which research and development are making possible with the telephone switching system. The program
